Look out for an Eclipse

If present crop conditions indicate anything, they point to the probable eclipse of the capacity of a good many Corn Crib. Crib-don't cost much to be sure, it's only a matter of finding time to build them, which will probably be easier now than later on. Don't put it off till you actually need the crib. J. W. CAMERON DEAD

END COMES WHILE DRIVING.

Had Been a Victim of Heart Disease for Some Years.—Was a Pioneer Resident of Wood County.

J. W. Cameron of Milwaukee died on Friday afternoon at three o'clock from heart disease while out driving with a friend of the family, Mrs. John C. Post. His death was practically instantaneous, as he had been conversing pleasantly with his companion when he gave a gasp and a second later lurched forward in his seat dead.

Mr. Cameron had complained some of not feeling well that morning, but had apparently recovered from a temporary indisposition and gone out driving. During his drive he met Mrs. Post and she being an intimate friend of the family he asked her to accompany him. This she did and it was while on their return journey that Mr. Cameron was stricken. Mrs. Post hailed a boy who drove them to a doctor as rapidly as possible, but Mr. Cameron was dead, and to all appearances had died instantly.

There was probably no Milwaukee man who was more intimately known throughout Wood County than Mr. Cameron. For many years he carried on lumbering operations in this county in the neighborhood of Vesper, and since then has been interested in the First National bank of this city and the First National at Marshfield, and was also a stockholder in the Grand Rapids Pulp and Paper company plant. He was president of the Cream City Sash and Door company and had numerous other interests of value. He was a man of wealth and his fortune is variously estimated at from $500,000 to $700,000.

Mr. Cameron was fifty-four years of age, and while he was said to be a sufferer from heart disease, no casual acquaintance would have suspected the fact. He had all the appearance of a man possessing a fine physique, and walked with the spring and life of a man much younger than he was, and was withal a picture of health.

He leaves a wife and one son, the latter being Frank J. Cameron of the firm of Kruger & Cameron of this city.

Mr. Cameron was born in the province of Nova Scotia on June 15th, 1848, but came to this country when he was quite young and early became interested in lumbering.

Mr. Cameron came to Wood county in 1876, being then in the employ of the Wharton Bros. Lumber company, whose business he managed at Vesper. He afterward became interested in the company and it was during the twenty years that he lived at Vesper that he amassed his fortune. He discontinued operations at Vesper in 1894, at which time the place was destroyed by fire. In 1895 he removed to Milwaukee, where he has since resided.

It was during his operations at Vesper that he made his friends in this locality, for every man who ever worked for Mr. Cameron or was thrown in contact with him in a business way are outspoken in their praise of him as a man, an employer, and a business associate.

He was a man whom wealth did not change, and the men who were his friends while he was struggling up the ladder of life were the ones he was glad to meet in after years when he had reached the top and retired from active life. It was the possession of these qualities that caused universal sorrow among his acquaintances in this city when the news of his sudden demise was received on Friday afternoon.

The funeral of Mr. Cameron was held on Monday from his home at 3200 Wells street, Milwaukee. The services were conducted by the Rev. Judson Tittsworth, and being private were attended by only relatives and most intimate friends of the deceased.

The pall bearers were E. P. Arpin, C. F. Kellogg, D. J. Arpin, E. T. Harmon of this city, W. D. Connor of Marshfield, and Herman Finger of Port Arthur, Canada, all of them having been associated with Mr. Cameron at some time in a business capacity.

The remains were placed temporarily in a receiving vault at Forest Home cemetery at Milwaukee, where a mausoleum will be constructed for their final resting place.

A Merry Party.

During the past two weeks a very large outing party and a happy one has been occupying the Olson and Hiles cottage. Everything in the way of fun was indulged in and every member carries away pleasant memories of Clear Lake. The party consisted of:

Mr. and Mrs. James K. P. Hiles and daughter Kitt, and Mrs. Ella Hiles of Dexterville; Miss Lucy Woodworth of Pittsville; Mrs. W. C. Armstrong and three children of Necedah; Miss Cora Pratt, Mrs. Jennie Pratt, Messrs. Olson and William Cochran, Mrs. J. W. Cochran, Charles Whittlesey, Miss Kate Smith, Miss Reta Cleveland and Herbert Cleveland of Grand Rapids; Miss Nellie Young and Clarence Jasperson of Nekoosa; Miss Effie Jasperson of Neenah; Miss Harriet and Harry Whittlesey of Cranmoor; Miss Bessie Lee and Mabel Southworth of Eau Claire; Mrs. Nellie O'Brien of Necedah; Henry Vachrean of Babcock, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Olson and family of Tomahawk. They all departed during the week for their respective homes, hoping that these merry days will again repeat themselves.—Tomahawk.

Digging Under Difficulties.

At the place where the F. MacKinnon company is engaged in putting up their new building for the wagon factory considerable difficulty has been encountered in finding a solid foundation for the walls of the building. Before commencing the structure Mr. Schnabel put down a test hole, thinking he had picked out an average place, and found only three feet of muck until there was solid enough bottom for a foundation. This seemed like an easy proposition and work was commenced, when it was discovered that the spot selected was about the most shallow spot in that locality, and the result was that in some places it was found necessary to dig a distance of nine feet in order to get a bottom solid enough to support a foundation wall. This has necessarily caused a great deal of extra work and delayed the progress of the structure a great deal, as the ground is of the softest variety, and so filled with water that it is very hard to make any progress in the work.

A Delightful Trip.

Last Sunday was a day for the papermakers at Nekoosa, the occasion being their excursion to Green Lake, which was brought about by T. E. Nash, who had chartered a train from the Northwestern Railroad company especially for the use of the papermakers, their wives, families and sweethearts.

Green Lake is an ideal place to spend a day, or even a succession of days, and those of the papermakers and others who attended say that the trip was a perfect one from start to finish. A number of boats had been chartered at the lake and everybody who cared for this sort of amusement were enabled to enjoy themselves to their heart's content. About five hundred participated in the trip, there being eight coaches well filled. As the entire expense of the trip was borne by Mr. Nash, the papermakers had every reason to feel that they had been royally entertained.

"At Valley Forge"

—Which will be the offering at the Grand opera house, Monday, Sept. 8, should be of exceptional interest at this time, as the scenes are laid in the so-called colonial period of our history. It is a well constructed logical drama replete with comedy and a strong heart interest, interspersed with a series of striking and powerful climaxes. The subject is a most interesting one, serving as it does to bring down from the past in an atmosphere of realism, the time and deeds of our great ancestors. The quaintness of the stage settings lend additional charm to the performance in their completeness. The cast is also highly praised as being one of unusual strength. Mr. Frederick Montague and Miss Effie Hext will be seen in the leading roles.

Martha Polansky.

Martha Polansky, the daughter of Fred Polansky, died on Tuesday morning about five o'clock from consumption, after a sickness of about a year. The deceased was 20 years, 3 months and 2 days old. She had an attack of typhoid fever about a year ago, from which she never fully recovered, and which left her in such a weakened condition that she fell a victim to consumption. The funeral occurs today from the Lutheran church in Sigel, Rev. Baese officiating.

It would seem that Mr. Polansky is having more than his share of trouble, as this is the third daughter he has lost, besides which his wife died less than a year ago.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS

BAND GRANTED APPROPRIATION

City Engineer Reports on Condition of Water at Pumping Station.—Other Items of Interest.

The council met in regular session on Tuesday evening. Mayor Wheelan being absent the chair was occupied by Geo. M. Hill, president of the council.

Among the interesting things was a report by Engineer Phillico, who has been engaged for several weeks past in searching for water on the land owned by the city just south of the pumping station on the east side.

Mr. Phillico stated that he had sunk six wells on the city property and one further south on the land owned by B. M. Vaughn. From these seven wells he had obtained a flow of water amounting to 56,000 gallons a day, which, however, was insufficient to supply the needs of the city. He stated that he did not consider that enough water could be secured from the property that the city owns to supply the city, and recommended that additional land be purchased from Mr. Vaughn.

When questioned concerning the probability of getting a sufficient supply provided additional land was purchased there he stated that his opinion was that there was sufficient water on the land to supply the whole of Wood county. He also stated that from the situation of the city land it was the poorest in the lot for obtaining a water supply, being at the extreme north end of the hill, while the excavations indicated the flow of water was toward the southwest.

The amount of water necessary to supply the city and leave a reasonable surplus for emergencies is 200,000 gallons daily. The west side pumping station pumps about 100,000 gallons daily, but it is considered that the east side would not use this much, as there are three railroad water tanks on the west side besides several mills and factories, all of which use a considerable amount of water, which would not be the case on the east side, so that 200,000 gallons daily would leave a surplus.

Along with Mr. Phillico's report was a proposition from Sarah Vaughan in which that lady offered to sell the city a strip of land 68 rods long and of varying width for the sum of $3,500, which included two wells on the land that have a daily flowage of some 30,000 gallons. Or if these two wells could be reserved by the present owner the land would be sold for $3,000.

This price was considered exorbitant for the land and a resolution was passed for the appointment of a committee with the power to purchase the land at a price not to exceed $1500. Mr. Hill appointed as such committee City Attorney Gaynor and aldermen Jackson and Gross.

Joseph Cohen addressed the council concerning the stone wall which he is constructing for the city across the street between the Hirschleib and Kromer properties. At the last meeting of the council the sum of $200 was appropriated for the purpose of building this wall with instructions to carry it up to the level of the street. To do this would cost considerably more than the $200, and it looked very much as if the council had been figuring on Mr. Cohen starting the wall on the money the city had granted and in his enthusiasm carrying the work along at his own expense. This latter part was what Mr. Cohen objected to. He was willing to put the wall up as far as $200 would carry it or he would continue the work indefinitely provided the city would foot what bills were incurred after the appropriation was played out. After considerable discussion it was decided that the city did not need a nineteen foot wall at this particular point and permission was given to stop the work at eight or nine feet, where ever the street committee decided would be high enough.

The matter of granting the band an appropriation for the coming year was brought up by Alderman Kruger. The boys asked for thirty-five dollars a month the coming year, but this was considered more than was necessary for the purpose and the council granted the sum of $30 a month, there being only one vote against the measure, which was by Alderman Flawelling.

Alderman Pratt suggested that the city have the recent addition to the city hall covered with brick, and that the same be done immediately, so as to be finished before cold weather sets in. The matter was referred to the street committee with instructions to proceed with the work.

Louis Hesier made application for a saloon license for the purpose of operating a saloon in the Closuit building near the Green Bay depot. Same was granted.

A number of bills were allowed, after which the council adjourned until the first Tuesday in October.

Interurban Coming.—D. O. Fisher was a caller at the Tribune office last Thursday and stated that he had just returned from Stevens Point, where, in company with Mayor P. Rothman he had been engaged in laying out the route of the proposed electric street car line. He stated that a route had been secured that was satisfactory to all parties concerned and that the building of the line was only a matter of a short time. He also stated that the Wisconsin Valley Power, Light and Traction company would be incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin by the 1st of September, and that the stockholders were all Wisconsin men.

—At Valley Forge—Which will be the attraction at the Grand opera house, Monday Sept. 8th, possesses a stirring heart story told in a logical and impressive manner. The scenes are laid in and around Old Valley Forge and historic Trenton, at the close of the great revolutionary war. Briefly the story concerns a dashing captain of General Washington's army and the pretty daughter of a Tory Colonel, and in the development of the plot the fortunes of the heroine and the hero are closely followed to the end, which comes with the fall of Yorktown and the ending of the war of the revolution. The climaxes are particularly well devised, following each other in a logical sequence. The production is spoken of as being unusual in its elegance and correctness. Mr. Frederick Montague and Miss Effie Hext will be seen in the feature roles and their support is said to include many well known names.

Marshfield's Street Fair.—The managers of the Marshfield street fair promise the people one of the finest entertainments of the kind that has been held in the state. Their subscriptions have been abundant and the managers have secured the best attractions that it was possible to get, and as a consequence they are justified in expecting something out of the ordinary. The grand show has been cut down to three days, as the management felt that if they entertained their visitors for this length of time and did it properly that they would have their hands full. The dates that have been set are the 25th, 26th, and 27th of September, beginning on Thursday morning and closing Saturday night.

Improvements Started.—Work was commenced on the stone wall which will be built back of L. Kromer's and Cohen Bros. places on the east side of the river on Thursday last. This means that as soon as the wall is completed work will commence on the new building which Mr. Cohen intends to erect. This will mean a great improvement in the appearance of the main street on the east side, as the two buildings that will be torn out to make room for the new place are anything but ornaments where they now stand. Mr. Cohen's new building will be a nice two story brick structure.

Nacht-Schlig.—On Thursday forenoon last occurred the marriage of Miss Angeline Schlig to Emil Nachti, the ceremony occurring at the Catholic church at Randolph, Rev. VanSever officiating. Nic Wirtz and Miss Hattie Wipfl acted as groomsmen and bridesmaids for the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Nacht left on the same day for Green Bay and other points on a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home at Aldort, where Mr. Nacht is a prosperous young farmer. The Tribune wishes with their many friends in wishing them happiness on their journey through life.

A New Computing Machine.—For some time past George Krieger, the machinist, has been working on a new computing machine, and he states that he has the theory of the concern all worked out, although as yet he has not finished a complete working model. The new machine when completed will compute interest and percentage as well as wages, and Mr. Krieger states that it will be the most complete affair of the kind ever invented. As he has not as yet secured any patents on the contrivance no description of it can be given.

Cofferdam Flooded.—On Tuesday the workmen who are engaged in putting in the stone wall back of L. Kromer's place had just got their cofferdam nicely pumped out and all ready to commence laying stone on the wall, when a rise of the river of about two feet filled the whole works with water again and left the top of the dam about a foot under water. This naturally delayed matters considerably, and the men have since been engaged in raising the structure and preparing for a continued siege of high water.

State Fair Exhibit.—L. M. Nash, chairman of the immigration committee, reports that a fairly good number have responded to the call for stuff to exhibit at the state fair and that the prospects are that we will be able to make a creditable showing down at Milwaukee. All of the arrangements have been completed and it is probable that the products will be shipped tomorrow or next day in order to be placed before the fair opens, which occurs next Monday.

Shot in the Leg.—Sam, the son of Jas. K. P. Hiles of Dexterville, was shot in the leg with a charge of bird shot on Tuesday. He was out hunting with Henry Bronson when the latter shot at a prairie chicken and a part of the load struck Sam. Dr. Waters went over and picked out 44 shot from the young man's nether extremities and it is thought that he will suffer no inconvenience from the accident.

Skinned by Wausau.—The base ball boys went to Wausau on Sunday and were defeated by a score of 9 to 6. It was a good game and the home boys claim if they had been playing against Wausau and not members of the state league they could have won out. Little defeats like this will happen occasionally, however, and the boys have no reason to feel sore about the matter.

Laying out Route.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company had a gang of men here laying out the route for the toll line which the company intends to build into this city. The line will run from Tomah to this city, and will be built of heavy copper wire, so as to facilitate talking as much as possible. They will build two circuits into this city to begin with.

BURTON NOWLAN IS DEAD.

Editor of the Janesville Gazette Expires at Star Lake, Wis.

DUE TO AN OLD INJURY

Underwent an Operation Last December from Which He Never Fully Recovered.

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—Burton F. Nowlan, managing editor of the Janesville Gazette, passed away this morning at Star Lake, Wis., where he had gone in hopes of benefiting his health. The direct cause of his death was an injury to his left knee, received in 1884, which caused him to retire from the active management of the paper in September, 1900.

Last December Mr. Nowlan underwent an operation for the trouble and his leg was amputated near the hip. Since that time he has gradually grown worse and as a last resort was taken to Star Lake last Sunday in the hopes that the outdoor air would build up his broken-down system.

Mr. Nowlan was born in Janesville June 1, 1870. He is the son of Postmaster and Mrs. O. F. Nowlan. He entered the employ of the Gazette in 1891 and by close attention to business rose rapidly and in 1898 became managing editor. He was secretary and treasurer of the Chicago Shooting Club of Koshkonong and president of the Janesville Gun Club. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Former Newspaper Man Dies.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—The sad news of the death of C. Scott De Lay, which occurred at his home in Shullsburg, La., on Wednesday, was received here yesterday and is being regretted by his scores of friends in this city. Mr. De Lay was but 25 years of age. He was born in Wisconsin and lived for a number of years in Madison, where he graduated from the high school and later entered the university. In March of '98 he came to Oconomowoc and entered into the newspaper business at the Wisconsin Free Press office, and while here made many friends. At the opening of the war he enlisted in Co. F, First Wisconsin Volunteers, as a musician, going to Jacksonville to the company. When they were mustered out of service Mr. De Lay secured an over-sea on a large plantation. About three years ago he secured a position on the Shreveport Times and has worked himself up into a very responsible position on that paper. His wife, who was Miss Adah Vincent of Shreveport, survives him, together with his parents, three brothers and a sister. Overwork and the effects of the fever which he underwent last year caused his death. About three weeks ago he lost the use of one eye and limb, his entire left side being paralyzed.

Louis Reichel, Boscobel.

Boscobel, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—The death of Louis Reichel, one of the oldest residents of the town, occurred at his home here last night. Mr. Reichel has been suffering for many years from consumption and his death is not unexpected. He was a member of the Blue Lodge of this place.

RAISE FARES AT LA CROSSE

Street Railway Company will Not Issue Six Tickets for a Quarter Hereafter.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—The La Crosse Street Railway Company has issued a statement in which it says that the increased cost of commodities compels them to discontinue the six ticket for a quarter system and put everything on a straight 5-cent fare basis. They exempt the hours of 5:30 to 8 each morning and 6 to 7 each in the evening and grant a thirty-five cent book for $1 to school children to use during certain hours.

The citizens will object strenuously and try to compel the Company to run on fare at night if they insist upon raising fare. They may attempt to pass a 3-cent fare ordinance.

PICK SHADE TOBACCO CROP.

Harvesting of Sumatra Wrapper Crown Under Shelter Begins.

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—The work of harvesting the Sumatra wrapper grown under canvas at the farm of S. R. Heddles has begun. W. W. Cohey, an expert from the department of agriculture at Washington, is here for a short time to give growers instruction as to the best method of picking.

Instead of cutting the stalk the leaves are picked singly from it, beginning at the bottom. Then they are carefully placed in cloth lined baskets and taken to the sheds, where they are strung on threads by means of large darning needles. The leaves are threaded face to face and back to back to prevent curling and also pole sweat.

The leaves left on the stalk continue developing and ripening and three or four pickings are made from a field.

A BRILLIANT DISPLAY.

Fireworks on Pewaukee Lake Exploded and Were Scattered in Every Direction.

Waukesha Beach, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—An explosion put a splendid, but brilliant end to the fireworks festival given at the summer home of Fred and Mrs. Kieckhefer at Pewaukee in honor of the Grand Lake Lighting Association. The supply of fireworks was placed upon a barge, which had been anchored about 100 yards from the shore. Those in charge were firing off the displays as rapidly as possible, and about one-sixth of them had been fired off when a spark fell among the balance of the fireworks on hand.

A regular volcano of fireworks followed and Roman candles, sky rockets, nigger chasers, pinwheels, flower pots and every imaginable kind of displays were discharged in all directions. Six men who were on the raft at the time, under the direction of Fred Luedke, the son-in-law of Mr. Kieckhefer, were forced to jump into the lake to save themselves from serious injuries.

There was a great deal of excitement among the spectators upon the shores and even more among those who had rowed out upon the lake in rowboats, as they were obliged to seek immediate refuge from the scattering fireworks. In the meantime the barge had caught fire and only after a desperate fight by the six men who had been on the boat was the blaze extinguished. The explosion of fireworks and the setting on fire of the barge put an end to the fireworks for the evening.

The grounds of Mr. Kieckhefer's summer home were beautifully decorated and presented a fine appearance. About 400 Chinese lanterns were distributed about the grounds and brilliantly illuminated the gardens. Numerous lemonade tables were placed underneath the trees and the guests were served by members of the household.

Almost all of the visiting yachtsmen were in attendance, and in spite of the sudden ending of the fireworks an enjoyable evening was passed.

CHILD CAUSES LOSS.

While Playing with Matches Four-Year-Old Boy Sets Fire to Strawstack.

Pittsville, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—Adrian Carlowski, a farmer living three miles west of this city, suffered a heavy loss by fire yesterday afternoon. During his absence from home his four-year-old boy procured matches and set fire to the strawstack, burning the straw and hay stacks, two barns, a granary, 700 bushels of oats, a tool shed, containing all the farming implements, making a clean sweep of everything but the house.

The horses were saved only by the presence of mind of a 9-year-old girl, who cut in halter straps and drove them out. The loss runs into the thousands and is partially covered by insurance. Prompt work on the part of the neighbors saved the house.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 29. The buildings are already overcrowded and it is quite likely that tents will have to be pitched to accommodate some of the other exhibitors. The stalls for the race horses are also overcrowded. The headquarters of Secretary True will be removed to Milwaukee next Tuesday morning. President McKewen returned from the Iowa fair yesterday.

Train Load of Men Has Been Dispatched to the Scene to Fight the Fires.

Tomahawk, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—Fire is raging in the second growth on the cut-over lands about Star Lake. Thus far no damage has resulted and none is feared unless very high winds should prevail. During the last three weeks little rain has fallen and the atmosphere has been very dry, thus producing favorable conditions for forest fires. Fires start here and there in scattered localities and burn briskly in the dry brush, but soon die out on reaching green timber.

The shores of Star Lake were swept during the last three days. Today fires are reported miles distant to the north and west of Star Lake. However, there is little valuable timber in that direction and no settlers.

The air is filled with smoke and cinders and the sky is dark, but the danger lies wholly in appearances and is not a reality.

A special train carrying an army of workmen was sent north to work on the fire. Water and dynamite were used to good effect. One of the workmen was seriously hurt by a falling tree.

Fires Near Houghton.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 29. [Special.]—The forest fires raging north and west of Calumet have done great damage. Hundreds of farmers are fighting to protect their crops and property. A large barn owned by the Jacks estate on section 25 was destroyed by bush fires and the Demarols estate also lost heavily on several haystacks. Heavy rain, a farm-house of section 25, also lost a barn. Unless rain should fall the situation will become more desperate.

TO PREVENT SEIZURES.

Plan to Take Possession of Creamery Buildings Blocked by Judge Seaman.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 29. [Special.]—A new move in the fight against the creamery companies to bring peace, as an injunction was issued last night forbidding any interference with the receiver. This is intended to block the taking of possession of creamery buildings by farmers and others seeking to establish independent works. Judge Seaman of Milwaukee, sitting for Judge Romanzo on the evening of section 25, also lost a barn. Unless rain should fall the situation will become more desperate.

A general injunction against all parties interfering with the business or property of the company as conducted by the receiver, the American Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

An order to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt against Thomas Johnson of Boaz, Richland county, for throwing the company's machinery out of the creamery building at Cuba, under lease to the company.

Judge Seaman said that the farmers of Wisconsin and other persons in interest must understand that the business and property of the receiver was in the possession of the United States court, and any interference would be construed as contempt and would be punished severely.

Dispatches from J. M. Garrison, superintendent of the Wisconsin branches, working in the field for the receiver, say that two more creameries had been seized in Monroe county, near Sparta. Other messages tell of threatened "taking of forcible possession" in a number of other places.

The farmers of Wisconsin in the district in which the Bigla company operates are dependent upon the branches of the company for a market for their milk, the competitive creameries having all been absorbed by the company. They are opposed to continuing to bring their product to the plants in the possession of the receiver, as they have not been paid for a month. Having no other available market, they are trying to evade the receivership by throwing out the machinery and establishing independent plants in the buildings.

ILL-MATCHED COUPLE.

Divorce is Granted Mrs. Charles Job, Aged 24 Years, from Husband Aged 73 Years.

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 27. [Special.]—Mrs. Charles Job, formerly Miss Claire Bohrick, aged 24 years, obtained a divorce yesterday in the circuit court from her husband, a well-to-do citizen of the town of Mukwonago, aged 73. Mrs. Job testified that her husband had choked her and called her unpleasant names. There was no defense, leaving it to be inferred that Mr. Job was not unwilling to become a bachelor again. His first wife obtained a divorce some eight or ten years ago, having married him when he had already attained middle life. His first wife still lives.

Morris H. Jones obtained a divorce yesterday from his wife, Margaret H. Jones, on the ground of desertion. The couple have lived over a quarter of a century near North Prairie, and have been married for thirty-five years. Mrs. Jones, however, left home five years ago, after thirty years of married life. There was no division of property, as some property has already been settled on the wife by Mr. Jones. All the children are grown up.

BIG MILL IS DESTROYED.

Entire Plant of Prairie du Chien Woolen Mills in Ruins.

LOSS WILL BE $150,000.

Origin of the Blaze is Unknown, the Fire Having Been Discovered in Main Offices.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Aug. 27. [Special.]—The entire plant of the Prairie du Chien woolen mills, with the possible exception of one building, was destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of over $150,000. The origin of the fire is not known, it being discovered in the office of the main building.

The main building, which contained the offices, finishing rooms and shipping rooms on the first floor, carding and picking rooms on the second floor and drying room and mangle department on the third floor, is a total loss, as is the building just north, which was completed three months ago. This building, which was 35x70 feet and two stories high, contained the washing rooms, dyeroms and woolrooms, and was fitted out with the latest improved machinery.

The large warehouse to the north of the new building where hundreds of bales of wool were stored met the same fate as did the ending house and dye and drug houses, the south wing of which is about 110 by 220 feet, two stories high.

The fire was one of the most destructive this city has ever witnessed. All the buildings of the mills, except the south building, which is the largest and contains the weaving and spinning rooms, were consumed. The loss is estimated at $150,000 with insurance to the amount of about two-thirds the value. The north building, which was completed three months ago and fitted out for wet finishing department on the lower floor, contained some of the most expensive and improved machinery, one of which was valued at about $8000.

Nothing definite can be learned this morning from the officers of the company in regard to rebuilding, although the general impression is that they will put up a larger mill than the one destroyed.

The explosion of the 150-horse power boiler about 12 o'clock caused considerable excitement among the onlookers which were thronged around the burning building, nearly the entire population being present. The night was still and clear and much adjoining property was saved. Had there been much wind from any direction the loss would have probably been much greater. The need of water works, which are being put in, is now appreciated more than ever, although the water used at last night's fire had to be pumped from hand on wheels, save one stream which was played on the fire by the Schumann & Menges fire engine company.

The mill was one of the largest in the state. During the past year the demand for Prairie du Chien made goods exceeded the output of the mills, and they were again enlarged by the addition of another shed, which necessitated the building of an addition on the north side of the factory and otherwise remodeling the original buildings.

The total amount of goods produced the past year was 228,480 yards and 98 persons were employed. A total of 1,468,000 yards of woolen goods was made in this factory during the eleven years of its existence and the estimated production for the year 1902 was 400,000 yards.

ROTARY ENGINE PERFECTED.

Sturgeon Bay Man Claims to Have Solved Perplexing Problem.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 28. [Special.]—The rotary engine, that J. P. Underwood has been constructing at the Hudson & Sharp machine shops in this city has been completed and was shipped to Mr. Underwood at Sturgeon Bay today. The trial will be made in that city, and should it prove successful the problem of rotary engine design, which has baffled the mechanical world for years, will have been solved.

Its inventor has great hopes for the success of his new machine and has conclusive proofs that it will when tested prove more than all expectations and its construction, as explained by Mr. Underwood, is perfectly logical and shows that the scientific application of steam as a motive power will in time revolutionize engine construction.

MANY LICENSES ARE ISSUED.

Nonresidents are Securing Permission to Hunt in State.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 28. [Special.]—Non-resident licenses for hunting large game were issued to W. E. Clow and his two sons of Chicago yesterday. These licenses are $25 apiece. Mr. Clow, Sr., who is connected with the big firm of James H. Clow & Sons, says that he and his sons expect to hunt a good deal in the state this fall. He is a member of the Black Hawk Club of Lake Koshkonong and spends much time at that lake each year. The non-resident license for hunting large game has never been issued this year, against two for the same time a year ago. Fifty non-resident licenses for hunting small game, at $10 apiece, have so far been issued this year, against thirty for the same time a year ago.

DIED SHIELDING LITTLE ONES.

Storks Voluntarily Burned to Death in Turkish Fire.

Storks have always been held in great esteem in Turkey, and their good reputation has gone up considerably owing to a most touching incident that occurred quite recently.

A small village on the Gulf of Ismilt caught fire and over 200 houses were destroyed. A large number had storks' nests on them, and at the beginning of the fire all the birds took flight. Almost immediately, however, they returned to their little ones, of which there were two or three in each nest.

The old birds settled down over their broods, covering them with their wings, and one after another perished in the flames without attempting to save themselves.—London Daily Telegraph.

A Benefit to Farmers.

The benefits that will undoubtedly result to farmers from the recent incorporation of the International Harvester Company which took over the business of the five leading harvester manufacturers have probably not been considered by a large portion of the farming community.

The economical necessity of a consolidation of the interests of manufacturers and those of their farmer customers must be apparent to any one who understands the present situation.

The increased and increasing cost of material, manufacturing and selling—the latter in consequence of extreme and bitter competition between manufacturers and their several selling agents—has made the business unprofitable.

The two alternatives left for the manufacturers were either the increasing of the prices of machines or the reduction of the cost of manufacture and sales. The latter could only be accomplished by concentrating the business in one company.

As can readily be seen, the forming of the new company was not a stock jobbing operation but a centering of mutual interests. There is no watered stock; the capitalization is conservative and represented by actual and tangible assets. There is no stock offered to the public, it having all been subscribed and paid for by the manufacturers and their associates.

The management of the International Harvester Company is in the hands of well-known, experienced men.

The officers are: President, Cyrus H. McCormick; Chairman Executive Committee, Charles Deering; Chairman Finance Committee, George W. Perkins; Vice Presidents, Harold P. McCormick, James Deering, Wm. H. Jones and John J. Glessner; Secretary and Treasurer, Richard P. Howe. The members of the Board of Directors are as follows: Cyrus Bentley, William Deering, Charles Deering, James Deering, Eldridge M. Fowler, E. H. Gary, John J. Glessner, Richard P. Howe, Abram M. Hyatt, William H. Jones, Cyrus H. McCormick, Harold P. McCormick, George W. Perkins, Norman B. Regm, Leslie N. Ward, Paul D. Cravath.

The International Harvester Company owns five of the largest harvester plants in existence. The Champion, Deering, McCormick, Milwaukee and Plano—plants that have been producing nearly or quite 90 per cent of the harvesting machines of the world.

It also owns timber and coal lands, blast furnaces and a steel plant; it has a new factory in the process of construction in Canada.

It is believed that the cost of producing grain, grass and corn harvesting machines will be so reduced that the present low prices can be continued, and that consequently the results cannot be otherwise than beneficial to the farmer. To maintain the present prices of these machines means to continue and increase the development of the agriculture of the world, for no one cause has contributed or can contribute more to this development than the cheapness of machines for harvesting grains.

Now Come Paper Teeth.

Actual use has proved paper teeth to be in every respect equal to those made of porcelain or other similar compounds. Dentists in Germany are now making them as prominent in their work as the latter, and in every case they are said to give satisfaction. Naturally, too, they are very much less expensive than the artificial teeth used hitherto, while they cannot break so easily, and are in the least susceptible to conditions of temperature.

Barking at The Moon.

The Pittsville Pilot takes an imaginary fall out of one of our citizens a couple of weeks ago by stating that it is the intention of the Democrats to run "one of the Arpins for member of assembly" by saying that a man who runs a mill and works his men eleven hours a day is no man for that position. In the same breath the Pilot man suggests the name of Jas. K. P. Hiles as a candidate for the office. Now we don't know whether the Arpins work their men eleven hours a day or not but if they do we'll bet dollars to doughnuts that they get paid for eleven hours work, so that we cannot see that this need to rankle in the bosom of the Pilot man. As to Mr. Hiles: If the Democrats see fit to nominate him the Tribune will be pleased to support him. They could go further and do worse. What is worrying the Republicans just now is the fear that Mr. Arpin will accept the nomination, as one of them admitted within the week that if Mr. Arpin headed the ticket he did not see much chance of the Republicans winning in Wood county. It must be that the Pilot man, who admits that he is with the fellow that puts up the most boodle, is casting his eye toward the Democratic "bar"!! Probably he will find before he gets through with it that the Democrats do not elect their men that way.

Hello Girls Going.

For some time past the newspapers of the county have contained vague reports concerning a new mechanical contrivance that was to take the place of the girl at the central telephone station. While the public has read these reports and probably believed that such a contrivance might some day be invented, it is probable that no one put much time worrying over the matter, thinking that the invention would be like some of Nikola Tesla's wonderful discoveries, a long time in materializing. But it seems that it was not all a josh. Already in Chicago there are being installed the machines to dispense with the telephone girl, and if they will work in a city that does the telephone business that Chicago does, they will work anywhere. With the new contrivance in successful operation all one will have to do is to press the proper buttons, take down the receiver, and there you are. Being a machine, and working automatically, no mistakes can be made, and if you call up the meat market and get the foundry it's nobody's fault but your own. When there is a defenseless girl at the switchboard who has no big brothers, a momentary wrong can be partially righted by calling down the girl, but with the machine at the other end all this will be changed. Cussing at the way things are run at central will then be about as effective as going out and telling your troubles to a policeman or a stove wall. There won't be anybody there to hear you. You can't ring up central and ask where the fire is, or who called you while you were gone, nor to ask what time it is, or any of those little things that the operator is supposed to be authority on. Just a whirr, a buzz and a final click, and that ends the matter. Verily, life will be a dreary waste when the telephone girl goes.

Wants to Know.

The Pittsville Pilot propounds several very important questions in its last issue. One of them is as follows:

"We see the Marshfield Times and Grand Rapids Reporter are publishing the only election notices that are being printed. We would like to know the reason. The Pilot is located in a more central location and is read by more bona fide voters than any other Wood county paper. These notices should be placed where the people will read them."

Another query says: "We would like to ask the parties who have control of the publicity printing at the county seat why this end of the world is not favored with its share?"

These questions will probably continue to be knotty problems to the Pilot man just as long as he remains in the newspaper business. However, if we might be allowed to make a suggestion we would say that the reason for all this is probably because he does not stand in with the powers that be. He may have the largest subscription list in the county, run the brightest editorials, and publish the most local news as he claims, but he should remember that the public is slow to appreciate true merit, and probably the best thing he can do is to hope for reward in the hereafter.

A man with the true journalistic spirit does not care for the money that is connected with the business. In fact he would rather not be corrupted by receiving of the filthy lucre. Just an occasional pleasant look is all any man can ask for in this line. There was a man once upon a time who had become imbued with the idea that it was necessary to have money to run a newspaper. He went to one of his delinquents and urgently requested that he pay something on account, winding up with the assertion that he could not run the paper entirely on wind.

"Well," said the delinquent, angrily "why in thunder don't you sell out to somebody that can?"

This ought to make the matter clear to anyone who is engaged or contemplates engaging in the newspaper business.

Fortune Favors a Texan.

"Having distressing pains in head, back and stomach, and being without appetite, I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes W. P. Whitehead, of Kennedale, Tex., "and soon felt like a new man." Infallible in stomach and liver troubles. Only 25c at John E. Daly's drug store.

Over the Telephone.

The Appleton Post has the following to say regarding the habits of those who use the telephone:

"Hello who is this?" How many times a day are business men, housewives, men and maidens of all classes forced to stand at a phone and return an answer to this impertinent question. It is probable that residents of Appleton are no more negligent about observing the unwritten laws of telephone etiquette than people in other cities, but a reform might just as well be started here as elsewhere. Any person of ordinary good breeding should be able to sit down and figure out that when he calls up another person he should not make that person take the initiative in beginning the conversation. If he expects to find John Smith at the other end of the wire, he should say, "Hello, is this John Smith?" not "Hello, who is this?" The same ruling will apply to the impertinent query, "Where is this?"

These flagrant breaches of the rules of telephone etiquette are by no means the only ones. Taking them as an example, when you have called a person to the phone and wish to speak with him later you would, "I will call you up later," instead of "Call me up later." "Get your face nearer the phone" or "Stand 3 feet to the left" should not be tolerated. It were far better that the conversation were discontinued altogether. There is a good opening for some polite Alphonso and Gaston of the telephone to come to the city and instruct people regarding their telephone manners. Meanwhile those who hope to improve might pin their faith to some such little motto as, Talk to another as you would be talked to face to face."

Stockholders Meeting.

The stockholders of the First National bank held a meeting last week and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: E. T. Harmon, president; Isaac P. Witter, vice president; Geo. W. Meade, cashier; A. G. Miller, assistant cashier. The business of the bank is in a flourishing condition, and notwithstanding the change in the officers it will be the effort to serve the patrons of the institution in the future the same as has been done in the past, and although Mr. Harmon, who has been at the head of the bank for the past nine years as cashier, has retired from this position, this will make no differences in the business methods of the concern.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Antoni Karowski, who lives one-half mile from Pittsville, lost his barn, granary and contents on Aug. 28th by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown as only the little children were home when it occurred. He carried insurance in the Seneca, Sigel and Rudolph Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and the loss was adjusted for $837.70.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sunderlin of Vesper were city callers on Monday and transacted legal business at Justice Getts' office. Mr. and Mrs. Sunderlin are proprietors of the hotel at Vesper and anyone calling upon them will find them pleasant people to deal with. They were formerly residents of Sterling, Ill., but came to Wood county to make it their home.

Misses Mayme Gray and Fannie Barette are visiting friends at Wausau. It is reported that upon retiring the first night of their visit these young ladies blew out the gas in their room, with the result that they were nearly asphyxiated, the smell of the escaping gas attracting the attention of the other members of the household to the mistake they had made.

John McCaffin suffered a stroke of paralysis on Thursday of last week, and he was unconscious for about twenty-four hours. It was expected at the time that he would not be able to withstand the shock, but since regaining consciousness he has improved rapidly and there is no question that he will soon be able to be about again if he continues to grow better at the same speed. One thing that was thought to be against his recovery was the fact that this was the third stroke he has suffered.

"In dealing with man, remember that a spoonful of oil will go farther than a gallon of vinegar." The same may be said of children. There is nothing so good for children as the old-fashioned castor oil. However much they may abhor it, it is their best medicine for disorders of the bowels. In the more severe cases of diarrhoea and dysentery however, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given after the oil operates, and a quick cure is sure to follow. —John Dengler's Capital for 5 cents is a gentleman's smoke. W. Gross & Co. moved into their new stand on the corner of Cranberry and French streets on Saturday evening and have since been busily engaged in getting things straightened around. This necessarily requires a lot of work, but they have made such good progress that on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week they will hold their opening, on which occasion they will serve coffee to their friends and provide them with a souvenir. A large plate glass window has been put in the north side which adds greatly to the display facilities, and the entire building both outside and in has been repainted, which is another improvement. The new store will make a very desirable location when the firm has everything in shape.

Advent the Candidate.

An Indiana editor announces the approach of the fall campaign this-wise. "Behold the candidate! He cometh up like a flower but retireth from the race basted. His friends fill him with false hopes and atmosphere. He swellth like a toad and calleth the earth his'n. He smiteth upon mankind and slotteth over with good humor. He kisses the children and scattereth the microbes among innocent babes. He privily cheweth a clove when he meeteth a preacher, and as he converseth with him in a pious tone he standeth and curbeth his breath with a strong bit. He goeth home late at night to his weary wife with a beery breath. He hicketh forth, without breakfast, saying, 'I go to see a man.' The dead beat who lieth around in wait then pulleth his leg. He 'saileth' a lie, but before election day cometh he is out of nails. He giveth liberally to the church; he subscribeth a goodly sum for the blind; he contributeth to the man whose barn was burned; he bestoweth alms; he signeth his friends note, he sendeth a small keg hither and a large keg thither; he yieldeth up his substance with apparent alacrity. After election he goeth out back of the barn and kicketh himself and tearth his hair and calleth himself a Rotterdam fool."

THOUSAND IN PERIL.

Italian Steamer is Run Down in New York Bay by a British Steamship.

New York, Aug. 28.—The incoming Italian mail steamer Liguria, with 1100 passengers on board, was run down in the Narrows, at the entrance by the outgoing British steamship Peconic. The accident happened in broad daylight yesterday afternoon.

The Italian's hull was cut to the water line, and in an instant there was a frightful panic on board. The vessel was inbound from Naples and carried twenty-one saloon, twenty-nine second cabin and 935 steerage passengers.

Passengers Hard to Control. The officers of the Liguria restrained the panic-stricken passengers with difficulty. The men, women and children had crowded the decks, gazing with eagerness at the shores of the new land to which they were coming to seek fortune and home.

When the two steamers crashed together the screams of the frightened passengers were plainly heard on shore. Tons of water began to pour into the great hold in the side of the Liguria, and the steamer listed to port so suddenly that there was a momentary fear that the vessel would turn turtle.

Drives All Across the Ship. Capt. Montano presided admirably in presence of mind, and in a few minutes drove the panic-stricken passengers over to the starboard side of the vessel. The weight of 1100 passengers suddenly thrown on one side caused a heavy list to starboard, raising the hole cut by the Peconic far above the water.

This prompt action on the part of the Italian captain doubtless saved the vessel from sinking and prevented what would otherwise have been the worst marine disaster of recent years.

Pilot Blames the Peconic. The pilot who brought the Liguria into port, Frank Kramer, said that the fault was all with the Peconic. He said the Liguria was coming along slowly toward the Narrows. The Peconic and the British steamer Antilla, bound out for Nassau, were steaming to sea a short distance apart when the Peconic blew two whistles and then changed the signals. The Liguria steered to starboard and then backed at full speed. The tug came with terrific force, the sound being heard on the shore.

The Peconic was so damaged that it had to return for repairs. The Liguria, after the inspection of passengers at quarantine, proceeded to the dock.

CAUGHT IN THE FAR WEST.

Sheriff of Menominee County, Mich., Apprehends Charles Vroman—Echo of Freeman Case.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Sheriff John Stiles of Menominee county has telegraphed from Wheaton, Wash., that he had captured Charles Vroman, who is wanted here for the alleged defrauding of the cedar firm of Huber & Watson of the sum of $7111.65. The sheriff started yesterday on his return trip with the prisoner. This is but another step taken in the Freeman case, as Vroman was working as inspector at Iron Mountain, Mich., for Huber & Watson, under the direction of A. V. Freeman, who is now serving a term in the state prison at Marquette for forgery and embezzlement, charges preferred by the same firm.

There were two Vromans, and both of them are said to have left Iron Mountain at the same time, shortly before Freeman's flight, and it was supposed that they had gone to South America. Huber & Watson, however, put Pinkerton detectives on the case and they have ever since been quietly working on every possible clue. At last Charles Vroman was located in Washington, where he had taken up a homestead. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest and Sheriff Stiles set out for the far West.

WILL CONTEST AVOIDED.

Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Oelrichs Settle with Mrs. Fair's Relatives by Paying Them $500,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., by the payment of what is currently reported to be $500,000 put an end to all danger of a contest of the will of Charles L. Fair or of his wife, recently killed in an automobile accident in France.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, Mrs. Fair's mother, Abraham Nelson and Charles K. Smith signed deeds transferring all their claims to Charles Fair's estate, and Caroline Fair's property to the two sisters.

The only possibility of any future trouble lies in the discovery of a late will of Charles Fair, leaving property to others than his kinfolk and his wife. Charles Fair's estate includes real estate worth fully $7,000,000. Mrs. Fair's estate was worth about $250,000.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE.

Large Tract of Farm and Timber Land Devastated in Vicinity of Lake Linden, Mich.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Forest fires have destroyed hundreds of acres of farm and timber land in the vicinity of Lake Linden and near Rice and Mud lakes. Yesterday smoke and flames could be seen above the forests near East Lake Linden, and should the fire advance farmers in the vicinity of Lake Linden will have a hard fight to save their crops. An enormous tract of land covered with berry bushes and sage brush has been devastated, but the extent of the territory covered by the fires or the damage done cannot be ascertained.

Husien Complete. During a sham fight an old general came unawares upon a soldier who was lying fast asleep in a field among the corn.

"Is this your post?" exclaimed the general, rousing him with the fall of his bayonet, making an example of him. The soldier, thus suddenly startled out of his slumber, rubbed his eyes, and recognizing the officer springing to his feet, presented arms, and said: "I beg your pardon, general, but we were going through a sham fight, and in order to make an illusion more complete I was just pretending to be dead."—New York Daily News.

TROOPS CLUB RIOTERS.

Half a Dozen Strikers are Bayoneted by Soldiers.

TO PROTECT WORKMEN.

Demand is Made that the Town of Lansford, Pa., be Placed Under Martial Law.

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 29.—In an encounter between troops and strikers at Lansford this morning, Capt. W. H. Heim of Co. K, Twelfth Regiment, was slightly injured. A half dozen strikers were bayoneted by the soldiers as a result of the fracas. Maj. Gearhart, in command of the troops here, states that he will appeal to the military authorities to put the town of Lansford under martial law.

From daybreak the troops were active in quelling disturbances and protecting nonunion men while on their way to work. As has been the case for the past few days, the troops were jeered wherever they went. The officers repeatedly admonished the crowds not to insult or molest the soldiers, but their words had but little effect. At 5 o'clock Co. K and F were placed in two trolley cars. One of the cars was run in front of the car which carried the nonunion men to work and the other in the rear. While passing through Conditale and Lansford the soldiers were booed.

Mob Makes a Rush. At Summit Hill about double the usual number of men availed themselves of the protection of the soldiers and went to work. The pickets of the strikers made efforts to stop them but the warnings of the soldiers held them at bay. When the workmen had been loaded onto the cars the return trip through the valley commenced. The word that more men than usual were reporting for work spread through the lower part of the valley and in a short time the streets were almost blocked with people. When the corner of Center and East Betsch streets was reached the cars stopped to allow the men to pass to the ground the mob made a rush for them. A half dozen soldiers sprang off the car and with leveled guns forced the strikers back and made a passageway for the nonunion men.

When the soldiers returned after escorting their charges to a place of safety the mob commenced to close in around the cars. The strikers were in an ugly mood and when ordered to disperse merely yelled louder and pressed closer. As Capt. Heim of Co. K was about to jump from the car he was seized around the legs and thrown to the ground. A half dozen privates who followed him were roughly handled. One of the men had a portion of his shirt torn off and, according to the enlisted men and the officers, a number of blows were struck. Maj. Gearhart, who was in command of the two companies, then ordered his men to dismount.

Clubbed Guns and Fixed Bayonets. With clubbed guns and fixed bayonets the soldiers forced the crowd back. Many of the strikers stood their ground and would not move until the soldiers jabbed them with their bayonets. Some of the strikers, fearing that the troops would rush into the open house on the corner and for a time a wild scene of confusion reigned. In about five minutes the crowd had been backed back to the curb line. In the melee several of the strikers were knocked down, while others suffered slight bayonet wounds. Capt. Heim was severely bruised by his fall.

Last night a crowd of lumber, which was standing on the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company's tracks at Summit Hill, was started down the steep stretch of road which leads to Lansford. The car leaped the track at a sharp curve and was hurled to the bottom of a mine-bank.

At midnight the governor's troop, Capt. Weaver, was sent to Summit Hill to protect the home of William Henry, a nonunion man. It was reported that the strikers were firing on the house. A part of the troop remained on guard there all night.

Men are Ordered Out. Demands that Nonunionists be Removed and Old Hands Banned Back Denied.

Lobanow, Pa., Aug. 29.—A committee of the striking employees of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company called at the office of General Manager Lord and demanded that the colored nonunion workmen from Reading and other men who had been sent here be removed and the old hands be taken back. This was refused.

The committee then returned and reported the matter to their leaders and a few moments later the men still at work, some 1800, were told to come out. The order was obeyed almost to a man, and promptly at 9 o'clock all left the big plant.

The plant, when in full operation, employs nearly 3000 men and boys. When the last strike occurred, sixteen weeks ago, about 800 men quit. The others remained at work. Now the entire plant is idle with the exception of that portion manned by the newcomers.

Not Accountable to Coal Barons. Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 29.—When the state troops reached Thurmond to preserve order and protect property in the mine region a request was made of Assistant Adjt. Gen. Huston to report to the operators at Rush Run for instructions. He refused point blank and said he was there with troops to act under instructions from the sheriff of the county to preserve order and not to take instructions from operators.

Sheriff Daniel then took three companies and the signal corps to Rush Run to guard the public roads and protect people. The remainder of the troops bivouacked at Thurmond.

The output in the New River held yesterday was $500, about one-third of the usual amount.

Company's Plans Frustrated. Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 29.—Strikers' troops were threatened at the Prospect and Lawrence mines of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company this morning. The strikers heard a rumor last night that the company intended to concentrate all its employees at the various mines into one working force and operate the Lawrence colliery. It is said the company has all told about 250 experienced men in its employ. If this number could be placed in one colliery like the Lawrence, the mining of coal could go on without difficulty. The strikers determined to frustrate the plans of the company if possible and it is claimed that over 1000 men turned out and patrolled the roads leading to the mines. The officials of the coal company realized the serious condition of affairs and Sheriff Jacobs was routed out of bed at an early hour. He went to the mine accompanied by a large force of deputies, but no attempt was made to place any additional men in the Lawrence mine this morning and the strikers made no demonstration, many of them withdrawing to their homes.

AIDED THE REBELS.

Colombia to Make a Formal Demand on Nicaragua for an Explanation.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Colombia will formally demand of Nicaragua an explanation in regard to the latter country's alleged participation in the revolution against the Colombian government and back up her demand with the most formidable land and naval force she can muster, as soon as the present rebel activity on the isthmus has been crushed. Information to this effect was received from an authoritative source in Washington today.

Shortly after Minister Coren's arrival in Nicaragua, where he went some weeks ago on a leave of absence, the Colombian officials here received information to the effect that arms and ammunition for the Colombian rebels on the isthmus were being shipped from Corinto. It develops that the purchase of the well-armed vessel at Seattle as well as several prospective purchases of warships for the Colombian navy have Nicaragua rather than the present troubles on the isthmus in view.

Senor Concha, the Colombian minister here, has received a cablegram from Gen. Salazar, governor of the state of Panama, declaring that Gen. Berri, with the Colombian government forces, is still in possession of Agua Dulce, and that the prospects are favorable for a maintenance of that situation. Gov. Salazar says that the report of an imminent capitulation to the rebel forces is unfounded. He also states that the rebels who are besieging him are in a sore plight because of the untenable condition of the territory which they now occupy.

Attacked by Rebels. Severe Fighting at Carupano, Venezuela, in Which Many Were Killed.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 29.—The German steamer Polaria, which arrived here today from Venezuela ports, reports that Friday last, August 22, while at Carupano, Venezuela, 700 rebels attacked that place suddenly and got inside the town, where they were met by 1000 government troops under Gen. Volitini. Severe fighting, lasting the whole day, followed and ended in the disorderly retreat of the rebels, several of the latter being killed or wounded.

When the Polaria left Carupano the Venezuelan government officials there were in fear of another and more serious attack on the place. Trade was completely crippled and many atrocities were reported.

ABOUT TO ELOPE.

Monroe, Mich., Aug. 29.—Walter Lemerand, lately from Toledo, O., came home this noon and found a man, a Frenchman, in the house with his wife. A quarrel ensued, the unknown finally running from the house. An officer attempted to arrest him, when he ran down Third street, a crowd pursuing.

The "assault" was raised and the mob began to shoot. The unknown ran into a cornfield, where he was shot dead by a bullet penetrating his heart. The woman denies that there was any assault.

An inquest is being held. The two men whose shots killed the victim are known and arrests will soon ensue.

Mrs. Lemerand says: "The man was sitting in the parlor with me when my husband came home. There was nothing wrong."

She would not reveal the man's name. Mrs. Lemerand has just told the sheriff that the dead man is Joseph La Barge, 319 Cherry street, Toledo. She says that she and La Barge had planned an elopement.

An autopsy is now being performed on La Barge's body and the inquest will be held tomorrow. No arrests will be made until after the inquest.

Remington Will Filed. Instrument Indicates that He Contemplated Matrimony Five Years Ago.

New York, Aug. 29.—The will of Robert R. Remington, who killed himself at Newport, was filed yesterday. The instrument throughout is anticipatory of marriage, though it was executed March 22, 1887, long before Remington became engaged to Miss Van Alen. It provides that if he leaves a widow she will have the bulk of any estate, but there is nothing to indicate an engagement. The will provided that if he left neither wife or issue his estate was to go to his sister, Maria H., or her issue. His brother is not mentioned.

NEW POST FOR BRAGG.

Said to Have Received Intimation from Roosevelt.

Plan to Transfer Consul General from Havana to Some Point in British South Africa.

Havana, Aug. 28.—It is reported in Havana that Gen. Bragg has received an intimation from President Roosevelt, sent through the state department at Washington, that a request for a transfer from Havana to the consul generalship of the United States soon to be created with jurisdiction in British South Africa would meet with the approval of the chief executive.

Gen. Bragg declines to discuss the question. He has expected for some time to be recalled one way or another.

E. J. Steinhardt of Porto Rico, formerly chief clerk to Gen. Wood and Brooke under the foreign government of military occupation, who was left in Cuba by Gen. Wood in charge of the United States war department archives having relation to this island, is mentioned as the possible successor to Bragg. Mr. Steinhardt is quite popular and is regarded as possessing the necessary diplomatic qualities to fill the position satisfactorily. As consul general of Cuba he would be regarded with favor.

Col. Joseph A. Springer, the acting vice consul general, is another candidate, and it is understood he has very strong political backing at Washington. Cuba is very bitter against Bragg. The contention is that the government cannot well get out of recalling him, inasmuch as his offense is exactly that which caused the return to Spain from the United States of Dupey de Lome, the Spanish minister, who insulted President McKinley and the American people in a private letter, which later reached the public prints.

FIND WATERY GRAVES.

Rowboat Run Down by Steamer and Occupants Thrown Into Water—Five are Drowned.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Five members of a boating party of six employees of the Battle Creek sanitarium were drowned last night in Lake Gogaine. Their rowboat was run down by the steamer Welcome. The dead:

MABEL RICHARD, aged 26, stenographer, Traverse City, Mich.
LIZZIE BRADY, 25, nurse, residence unknown.
DELLA DORSEY, 21, nurse, Allegheny, Pa.
FANNIE WILLIS, nurse, home near Toronto, Ont.
C. F. BENNETT, male nurse, Dallas, Tex.

Miss Carrie Eyock, the other occupant of the capsize boat, was rescued. Bennett had been rowing the young ladies about the lake and the party was returning to the sanitarium villa about 10 o'clock just as the little steamer Welcome was leaving her dock with an excursion party. In some way as yet unexplained the Welcome ran the rowboat down. The small boat was struck amidship and the hull crushed. All the occupants were thrown into the water.

Miss Eyock managed to catch hold of the overturned boat and hung to it until she was rescued. In a short time the bodies of Miss Brady and Miss Richard were found floating on the water. They had evidently been killed by the collision or they would have sunk as did their companions. Dragging for the bodies of the others was immediately begun, and at 2:30 all had been recovered and were brought to this city. All of the victims except Miss Richard were members of the new class of nurses at the sanitarium.

Montague Holbein failed in his attempt to swim across the English channel. He was taken out of the water when a mile from Dover.

Holbein had to be helped out of the water, being too exhausted to struggle any longer against the westward tide. He stayed in the water twenty-two hours and twenty-one minutes.

BRIDE'S SHOCKING DEATH.

Ties Her Head to Gas Fixture with Jet in Her Mouth and Then Turns on the Gas.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 28.—Apparently driven frantic by the fear that she might some time become insane, Mrs. John McCurdy, a bride of less than three months has killed herself in a peculiarly shocking manner. Having first undressed she put on a nightgown, climbed to the top of the dining room table, and having placed her mouth over one of the jets on the chandelier, tied her head firmly by means of heavy cords wound tightly around her neck. Then she turned on the gas. When her husband came home he found her dead. Letters that the woman had behind her head to the effect that she was mentally distressed. She was 33 years old.

Prof. Richards Visits Copper Country After Absence of 25 Years.

Lake Linden, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Prof. Richards of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology went sight-seeing about the Calumet & Hecla stamp mills and smelting works yesterday. The visit was of great interest to him because twenty-five years ago he operated the smelter here for the Calumet & Hecla Company, where the first refining of copper was done by that corporation. The operation of the plant at first was largely an experiment, but eventually led to the building of the large smelting works here.

UNKNOWN SHIP BURNS.

Vessel Near Menominee, Mich., is Badly Damaged—Crew is Probably Safe.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 29.—An unknown vessel burned off Menominee last night, and great crowds of persons lined the shores of the bay watching the scene. A fire tug and the tug O. M. Field left Menominee to give aid, and the fire tug could be seen at work about the blazing ship. Many persons believed that they saw men walking around on the burning vessel, whose identity had not been learned.

Assistance might have been rendered the burning vessel early in the evening had not the captain of the steamer City of Marquette believed the blaze to come from a shanty on shore. Later the blaze was seen to come from the boat, which gradually drew nearer shore.

The discovery that the fire was from a vessel was made simultaneously on the passenger steamer and on shore. When the truth became known the passenger boat was too far away to give help, and the fire tug was first on the scene. When last seen it was thought the fire tug had the burning ship in tow, and was throwing water on the fire, which was nearly out.

Nothing more definite in regard to the burned vessel is known so far. The fire tug and tug O. M. Fields returned late last night. Although it appeared from shore in twilight that the fire tug was towing the burning vessel out into the bay, the captain of the tugs says they went six or eight miles up the shore, but before they arrived there it had become dark. They did not get within two miles of the burning vessel, as she had drifted near shore, and the tugs were afraid of running aground or on rocks.

Unless some fisherman comes down today or some tug goes to the scene the name of the burning vessel will not be known.

It is conjectured that Mrs. Marsh had gone to the window to get air and toppled head foremost through the window. She fell a distance of thirty feet onto an asphalt paved alley.

FETTERED BY FATE

That very evening Captain Grant was made the recipient of a letter purporting to come from Roger Darrel, in which the time, place and weapons were named. When the early dawn came, his second was with him, and together they set out for the place appointed as a rendezvous.

At some time in the dim past it had been ground consecrated to burial purposes, and the weeping willows still swayed their long, slender branches over a few stones that were half hidden in the tall, rank grass.

Hardly had they come to a pause when a couple of forms appeared among the trees and advanced to where they were standing. To the surprise of the Captain neither of these was Roger Darrel. Before he could comment on this fact, however, the strangers had arrived close to them.

One was a handsome man, the other a tall, willowy youth, with a small, dark mustache. The latter's hat was so arranged as to hide part of his face, but the flashing eyes seemed to pierce the Captain through and through, and somehow he shivered as though seized with theague.

"You are in time, gentlemen," said the handsome man in a musical voice.

"We are well aware of that, sir, but how is this? I do not see your principal," returned Lieut. Carson.

"He is here," said the youth, quietly.

His words produced something of a sensation, and Lieut. Carson laughed.

"There is some mistake," he said; "we came out to meet another."

"That other will not be here, and in order that the gentleman should not be disappointed in meeting a Virginian, my friend here is willing to cross blades with you," and the handsome man indicated with his hand his comrade.

"Captain Grant laughed aloud.

"I have passed through some strange scenes in my life, but I assure you, gentlemen, this beats them all. What do you take me for? My life is certainly valuable to me at least; therefore, you will pardon me if I decline to risk it in an engagement with one with whom I have no quarrel."

The face of the youth reddened a trifle, as though the voice of the Captain, more than the words he uttered, touched some hidden chord deep in his heart.

"Are we to understand that you refuse to fight, then?" inquired the handsome stranger.

"Exactly. If my foe has been cowardly enough to send some one in his place—"

"Hold!" cried the youth, in a strangely stern voice, "say no more. The gentleman never sent an answer to your challenge. Probably there will one come to-day, but I mean to place you in a condition where accepting it will be out of the question. It was my friend who wrote you, and I am here to keep my agreement. You are a coward if you do not fight me, and he whispered a name in the duelist's ear.

"Your object is fully accomplished, my friend. Who you are, and what the cause of your enmity may be, I know not; but that is now a small matter with me. I see your friend has swords with him. We will test their temper."

He took one of the blades offered to him almost without a thought, and tried it over his knee. They were of the finest material, and the eyes of the duelist lighted up with satisfaction when he discovered this fact, for he loved a good sword above all things.

At a given signal the long swords crossed, and the duel had begun. The steel blades whirled, twisted, and quivered like so many serpents, and yet so well matched were the two antagonists that it seemed impossible for either to accomplish the desired result.

Like lightning finally the sword of the stranger passed through the Captain's sword arm, and at almost the same moment his blade was plucked from his hand by a neat twist of the other's wrist, and sent whirling away among the grass-covered gravestones.

Then, while the point of the stranger's sword touched his breast, he saw him raise his hat and dexterously remove the false mustache. A shower of ringlets fell about the white neck of the man of mystery.

Captain Grant glared wildly at the beautiful face.

"You!" he cried, "are you alive and here? What nightmare is this? Speak, and tell me, Nora Warner!"

CHAPTER IV.

In all his life Captain Grant had never suffered such a defeat, and what made it all the more bitter was the fact that it came from the hand of a woman whom, for reasons best known to himself, he had come to hate most heartily.

Eye looked into eye, but that of the duelist could not stand before the mad glare in the orbs of his rival, and he felt his gaze fall. At last she spoke, and her voice was trembling with deep emotion.

"As you see, I am alive and here, seconded and impromptu. The grave could not hold me nor the mad house contain me. From death I have come to life, and now let those who have injured me tremble, for my heart is turned toward vengeance, and I shall never cease until my wrongs of the past are righted. This is my first blow."

"For the present we will cry quits, but the time will come in the future when you shall be repaid for this, curses on you, woman or fiend, whichever you are," he grated between his set teeth.

The handsome man uttered a sharp cry, as if he had been struck a blow, and, leaping forward, would have slapped the Captain in the face, but that the woman duelist held him back.

"This is not your quarrel yet, Jack. Wait until I have failed to accomplish my vow, and then remember your oath," she said hastily.

"Perhaps you are right, but when that time comes this oath will have to suffer for those words. If you have done what you came here to do, let us be gone."

"My work for the present is done. I have prevented him from meeting the man he hates."

Turning, the strange girl led her comrade away. Who this mysterious "Jack" was, the Captain had not the remotest idea, and yet several times a spasm of fear shot like a dart through his heart, as if guilt warned him that there was a reckoning between him and this personage that must sooner or later be settled in full.

Of course, when Roger's acceptance was brought to the Captain, he was forced to postpone it for the time, and the gentleman who carried it to him thought he was wise when he saw the wounds he had received.

The young Virginian was disappointed when he learned how matters stood, for since the meeting in the avenue of elms, and the challenge, he had been in a perfect fever to meet this impudent duelist.

It gave him pain to even look in the direction of Richmond Terrace, and he made up his mind to go abroad once more. Having arrived at this determination, the young master of Darrel Chace counted the days that must elapse before he could put his idea into execution.

The shadows were gathering late one afternoon, and twilight was rapidly settling over the land, when Roger made his way in the direction of his home. While he was yet within a mile or so of Darrel Chace, he was astonished to see a female figure rise up before him and bar his way.

She was a young woman with great, black, velvety eyes, and a face of the pure oval type, and slightly olive in color, though he had not much chance to observe it just then, as she hastened to speak.

"We are well met, Roger Darrel. You have the same nerves of iron, I see, that owned you master before, and not for your life would you by start or word own that you recognized me, and yet there is not a person in the wide world you would hate to meet more."

Her words were fierce and venomous, and, leaning forward, she let her great black eyes rest upon his face as though she would read his very soul. The man looked at her keenly. One might have thought that he was now looking upon her face for the first time.

"Who are you?" he asked at last.

"The other did not seem to know at first whether to get angry or laugh, but finally did the latter, and there was something cold in her forced merriment that made him shiver.

"Behold in me a gypsy girl, daughter of a queen, whom the silver tongue of a serpent lured away from the home of her people. She was outlawed from her tribe and deserted by the white-faced traitor whom she had loved and trusted with her whole heart and soul. What, then, had she to live for but revenge?"

"The hand of the gypsy maid had been creeping toward her bosom all the while, and at this juncture she flashed a shining stiletto into view. Roger Darrel caught her by the wrist with a grasp of iron.

"Girl," he said, sternly, "what would you do?"

"Do!" she hissed; "I would kill you, snake in the grass that lured me from happiness to a living death. I would sever your black heart with this trusty blade, dedicated to that purpose. Think not to escape the terrible vengeance of the gypsy girl. She has followed you over land and sea, waiting for the hour to strike, the hour when you would be most happy, and when life would be most dear to you. A short time ago it seemed that that hour had come, and Barbara Merriles struck the first blow. Now, when she has helped to blight your life she comes before you, ready to finish the work with her dagger. You are doomed, Roger Darrel, doomed."

"A fig for your threats, Barbara Merriles. True, your name has often been in my mind, but I have never had occasion to fear you. Come closer here and look me in the face. Then you may strike with this blade if you dare."

She leaned forward and her eyes were glued upon him for the space of a minute. Then she uttered a sharp cry. Roger loosened his grip upon her wrist, and the hand holding the dagger dropped to her side.

"Will you strike now?" he asked quietly, while a strange look came into his eyes.

"Great heaven! what have I seen? No, your life is sacred from my dagger. You are not Roger Darrel, but the man who saved me when I would have leaped into the mad river, and to whom I owe much! What if I had slain you; my own life would have followed, for I never could have survived such base ingratitude. Farewell, my friend of the past. We shall meet again."

Before he could restrain her she had sped away, vanishing among the shadows of the trees as though pursued by fairies.

Roger Darrel resumed his walk in the direction of his home. What thoughts were surging through his mind just then it would be hard indeed to say, but he seemed to be laboring under some powerful emotion.

What was it the gypsy girl had said? "Not Roger Darrel!"

What mockery could this be, then? How dared he come there and take possession of Darrel Chace if he was not the true heir?

Captain Grant was an honored guest at Richmond Terrace, and his word seemed to be law. The servants all had their orders to obey him as promptly as they did their master, and between the fiery old man and the whimsical soldier they were kept pretty busy.

Lawrence Richmond had been more moody than ever. He watched Captain Grant from under his shaggy white eyebrows with almost a glare in his eyes, and once in a while there might have been seen upon his face an ominous scowl.

The secret that lay between these two men dealt with the past, and it hung over the head of Lawrence Richmond like the knife of the guillotine. Every day that passed served to increase the feeling of mingled dread and hatred which the one bore toward the other, and Lawrence Richmond was fast becoming desperate.

A demand on the part of the soldier for his daughter served to cap the climax. In spite of his terrible temper and his strange actions at times which would seem to belie the fact, this man sincerely loved his child.

Alone in his library the master of the Terrace paced to and fro like a caged tiger. He did not notice the presence in the room of the Captain until the latter gave utterance to a low, metallic laugh.

The old man looked up quickly, and the keen-eyed soldier noticed a wild, half-crazed look upon his face that he had never seen there before.

"He has settled upon something; I can see it by the glitter of his eyes and the way he shuts his teeth. Have a care, my old gentleman, or you will find your claws ripped still closer."

Thus he muttered as he waited for Mr. Richmond to speak.

"You here?" said the other, at last; "what a wonder I knew it not, for generally I feel the evil influence of your presence like a deadly vapor."

"You are disposed to be sarcastic, Mr. Richmond, but under the peculiar circumstances I can forgive you. I am come to ask a little temporary loan of you—a matter of a mere thousand or two."

"Curses on you and your loans, you will drive me to distraction yet. What if I should go mad? Why, man, I would tear you limb from limb, I hate you so. Do you not ever think of the risk you are running in persecuting me thus?"

"I have done nothing so terrible, my dear old gentleman. The case lies in a nutshell. You had your choice between providing for me with a small portion of your immense worldly goods, or else losing the whole of them, your liberty, and, perhaps, your life. That you have chosen the former only proves your wisdom."

There was conscious power in the voice of the Captain that was peculiarly aggravating to the old man, but he calmed himself as well as he was able, though his eyes still glittered with that strange, metallic gleam that boded no good to the object of his anger.

"I hate you," he said, "not so much for what you are doing, man, but because you know I am perfectly innocent of crime, and yet, knowing this, you still blackmail me."

"That is a very nice statement for you to make, dear sir, but how are you going to prove it in any way?"

"Hah! schemer, there more of your cunning crops out. The papers that would exonerate me you have stolen and hold over my head. To save them from being destroyed and myself from future trouble, I have been buying your silence in the past, but now your demands are growing too preposterous. For the first time I ask for your mercy. I would not have your blood upon my hands, but I feel like a man hunted by a human bloodhound and who must, unless the dog gives up the chase, either fall himself or destroy the hound. Plainly, Captain Grant, is it your life, or mine?"

"Then hear me, old man. I utterly refuse all compromise. I have no other means of living at present except on you, and as, for reasons of my own, I expect to make America my home in the future, I may as well provide against a rainy day. It is but fair, then, that there should be an equitable division; so make up your mind to that."

Lawrence Richmond's face whitened, and the skin seemed drawn like parchment over the bones. His teeth were clenched as if set in agony, and the wild gleam deepened in his eyes.

He reached out his hand and it fell upon a peculiar nail in the wainscoting. As his finger pressed against this, a portion of the oiled floor of the library suddenly yawned open, leaving an aperture of perhaps a width of four feet, down which the Captain would have been hurled like a cannon ball, but for the fact that he gave an agile spring just as the trap fell, that landed him beyond the danger line. Quickly he whipped out a little silver-mounted revolver.

"Poiled again, old man. You see it is useless to fight against fate. I am ready for any such emergency," and, turning, he left the room.

"Curses on him," muttered the old man, deeply moved, "he bears a charmed life. Satan protects his own, but I will yet burst asunder the bonds of fate, and then let him beware."

GAS FLAME MAKES MUSIC.

A Singular Musical Instrument Designed by an Eminent Scientist.

Few men who deal in science from the abstract standpoint ever evolve anything practical from their theories, but Prof. Ogden Reed has proved an exception.

A New York mechanic has constructed, upon the professor's suggestion, a musical instrument of a decidedly novel description. Until informed, no one would ever recognize the apparatus. It is part of the chandelier in the owner's drawing-room. The basis of the affair is the so-called musical flame.

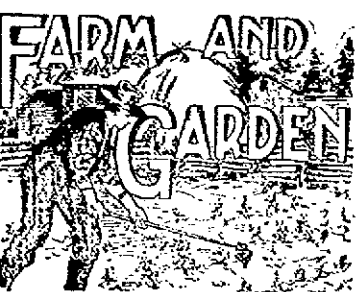

When gas is burned in a cylindrical chimney of a certain length and width it produces a musical note. According to the angle at which the vapor is emitted from the jet, there will be either a sound or silence. A simple contrivance enables the owner by touching a button to change the flame from musical to non-musical at his will. There are thirty lamps in his chandelier so arranged as to make four octaves. The keyboard is in a corner of the room, where it occupies but little space and might easily be mistaken for a convenient shelf on the wall. The music produced by the flames is very pleasant. It is not as loud nor as vibrant as that from either wood or brass wind instruments, but is fuller and more sonorous than a whistle or a flute.

An odd feature of the instrument is that playing on the flames does not vary the amount of light produced, the musical being indistinguishable from the non-musical flame. All that the spectator notices is a delightful melody of unusual timbre coming to him from the chandelier.

The owner has frequently had considerable fun by playing the instrument when some one was in the room or hall that knew nothing of the affair. When the auditor was educated he was puzzled and looked about the parlors in vain for the new-fangled music box he believed to be at work. Where he was ignorant he usually manifested some fear along with his bewilderment.

Ingredients of Meteors.

Meteors which reach the earth almost invariably contain a large quantity of iron and a smaller amount of nickel.

Making Butter in Hot Weather.

In a recent Home and Farm, Maud Shields, of Arkansas, gives some points on the subject. She says: I say by all means get a separator, then buy milk cans large enough to hold one milking of cream, let it cool, put the lid on the can and hang it in the well. It does not matter whether it is in the water or not, it will keep cool, and will be ready to churn in twenty-four hours. Use a thermometer and churn at about 64 or 67 degrees. Take up the butter, wash thoroughly by pressing with the paddle. Don't drag the paddle through it, as it spoils the grain. Salt it, using pure salt, and mold it as quick as possible. Wrap each pound in a nice clean cloth wrung out of cold water.

Get you an empty butter keg from your grocery man, bore holes near the top just below the lid, take a piece of new rope and make a handle, put wire, clean, new white paper in the bottom, then put in the butter. Put another piece on top just below the lid and hang it in the well. Paper is better than cloth, as the cloth mildews.

When you are ready to go to town, use another keg just like the one in the well; put a clean towel in the bottom; put in the butter; then another clean towel on top. Fasten on the lid, wet some clean sacks in a tub, fold them without wringing on the bottom of your wagon, set the butter keg on them, and wrap wet sacks around the keg and on top. As you deliver the butter take the cloths off, take them home, and wash and scald thoroughly. Keep two sets of cloths; while one set is sunning and drying another can be used. We have a separator; we sell a part of the milk sweet, the rest we make butter milk. We set it and let it clabber; then take an old-fashioned churn-dash, and churn it up and down until it is free from lumps and is smooth. Don't put any water in it; leave it thick; it sells much better. When you are ready to go to town, mix what butter milk you have from the cream with it.

Saw-Filing Device.

Selecting a crosscut saw that will work rapidly and with ease requires considerable experience. A saw having 4 cutting teeth, as shown in cut at a, to 1 straight drag tooth, b, with back of saw 4 gauges thinner than edge, will do as much work as any other. It requires less work to keep such a saw in order. Medium thickness is best. A thick saw is clumsy and cuts a large groove, while a very thin one requires frequent resetting. Our cut shows a filing frame for a crosscut saw. The base, c, is 2 feet long, 1 foot wide and 6 inches high. It should be fastened to the floor. The pieces, d, d, are 2x3 inches and are mortised in the base. The piece, e, is 1x6 inches, cut shape of saw and beveled to the saw. There are three 1/2-inch bolts at c, c, c, on which saw rests and is tightened when put in the frame. The entire height is 45 inches.—W. A. Sharp, in Farm and Home.

Feed for Laying Hens.

There is probably no food better calculated to promote laying in fowls than cowpeas. Peas or beans of any sort are good, but large ones must be ground, or fowls will rarely eat them. Of cowpeas the smallest variety should be chosen, as fowls unused to such grain must be accustomed to it gradually. But once get them to eat peas and the victory is won. They are a perfect substitute for insects, meat scrap, blood meal and other animal preparations that are often so combined with cheap substances that the hens are a long time learning that when they are fed "Lohm's concentrated egg food" they ought to lay fluently, instead of almost imperceptibly. Pea vines with peas on them cut as soon as the peas are full grown and while yet green, thrown into the chicken yard, will give them exercise and the very sort of food their nature craves. They will eat the stems as they can break up small enough to swallow.

A Good Thing to Do.

There is no branch of farm operations that can be permanently and profitably improved more easily and at less cost than the poultry yards. A dollar or two invested in eggs of good breeds of fowls will bring back many times the investment within a year or two. If you want to improve your poultry, you can do it quickly, cheaply and with but little risk.

Breeders have learned that it pays to send out no eggs except from good stock. A sitting or two is all that is needed for a good start. A very few dollars spent for good eggs means a nice flock of fowls in one year, when you may be in a position to sell to your neighbors at good big prices.—Exchange.

Cutting Grass Early.

Chemical analysis is said to show that the grass cut when the seed has ripened, or is nearly ripe, has about the same amount of nutrition as it has when cut earlier, and thus some allow it to stand that it may increase in weight. But when the cow puts it through her laboratory she does not find the same value in the later cut hay. A part of the seeds have rotted out and been lost, and the remainder are so small and so encased in a dry coating of shell that not many of them are chewed up, and thus pass through the stomach and bowels undigested. Then the stalks which contain the most nutriment before the seed has formed have become simply woody fibre as indigestible as bean poles, and she gets but little nutrition from them. We think if she could speak she would say that two-thirds or less of the amount of hay, cut early, and not sun-dried too long, was better than her usual ration of hay, ripened before cut and overriden afterward. But if she can not talk she has many times put herself on record to that effect at the milk pail and the churn, and it is because the owner fails to see and understand these records that he does not know the facts. The scale to weigh the milk and the Babcock test for the butter fat help to tell what is the best food, as well as which is the best cow.—American Cultivator.

Haying on Soft Meadows.

Along sluggish streams are thousands of acres producing fairly good cow hay, but on which teams cannot be driven without danger of becoming mired. The work is therefore all done by hand, including the dreaded task of "polling out," or carrying the hay in large ricks on a pair of poles, to the edge of the upland, where it is to be loaded. To avoid this drudgery some farmers use mud shoes for their horses, as illustrated. The shoes are of oak, 1 inch thick and 8x10 inches for a horse of average weight. Edges are beveled and planed, and ends are strongly cleated on the under side. Holes are made to fit the projections of the iron shoe and an iron strap, which a blacksmith will make from the illustration for a few cents, passes across the hoof and is fastened by nuts on the lower side of the mud shoe.

After Harvest.

After the wheat is harvested the young clover grows rapidly, as its supply of plant food is increased by reason of the richness of its wheat competitor, but many farmers allow weeds to grow, mowing them down before they produce seed. Such a plan is better than to leave the weeds to mature, but the proper course to pursue is to mow the weeds when they are young and before they have deprived the clover plants of food. By mowing them two or three times during the summer many of them will be destroyed.

Clipping Work Horses.

Whether or not it pays to clip work horses was tested at the Michigan experiment station and reported in a recent bulletin. The conclusions were not as definite as might be desired. The station, however, believes that the horses which were clipped did their work with much greater comfort in early spring than those which were not clipped. This of course means a great deal when animals are at work preparing the land for spring crops. The clipped horses always look better.

Grass for Sandy Lands.

Awadless bromine grass (Bromus inermis) will be found excellent for use on drifting sands. It is a perennial, looks somewhat like blue grass and is suitable for light, dry, poor soils and resists dry weather. About fifteen pounds of seed per acre should be used. It spreads by creeping underground stems or root stocks. It will not thrive on wet soils. While not as valuable as many other varieties, yet it serves well on light sandy soils upon which no other grass will grow.

Commercial Feeding Stuffs.

The New York experiment station says that in its inspection of commercial feeding stuffs unadulterated and good were found to be of fairly uniform quality and practically as good as the guarantees except in a single instance. The discrepancies occurred with the mixed goods, many of which contained oat hulls, as shown by the percentage of crude fiber present. Adulteration of corn meal and other grain products appears to be practiced.

Managing Dairy Cows.

The proper management of dairy cows embraces far more than their mere crumming with food. "The cow milks by the mouth," is an old saying, and it is quite true to a certain extent, but if she be given even large quantities of unsuitable or badly balanced food she will not milk to her fullest capacity. Besides, there are a great many other things to be attended to as well as the food, such as watering and ventilation.

Hay Will Be High.

It seems a probability that hay will continue high one more year, says an exchange. Last year's drought affected the area of meadows in the West beyond doubt, and the crop reports place condition below the average. Some dry weather this year has cut the possibilities of the crop badly. In portions of the East the weather has been equally dry.

MONUMENT IS DEDICATED.

The People of Rock County Erect Memorial to Its Heroes of the Civil War.

Jamesville, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The beautiful soldiers' and sailors' monument erected by the people of Rock county in memory of their soldiers and sailors in the War of the Rebellion from 1861 to 1865, was dedicated today in the presence of a large gathering of people from all parts of the state.

RACINE MAN MISSING.

James Johnson, Prominent Danish Resident, Leaves Home and Cannot be Located.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The family and relatives of James Johnson, one of the prominent Danish residents of this city, have been searching the city and vicinity since yesterday morning for the missing man. Johnson, who has been in ill-health for several years, left his home early yesterday morning and he has not been seen since. Some fears are expressed of his having met with foul play, but it is generally supposed that he has committed suicide. He was last seen about a mile west of the city near the river and he may have ended his troubles in the river.

Johnson was 52 years of age and at one time was a mail carrier in this city. His wife and children claim he has acted in a strange manner for several days previous to his disappearance.

STARTED MANY FIRES.

Fifteen Boys Arrested at Three Lakes for Setting Fires in Different Places.

Three Lakes, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—About fifteen boys from 8 to 15 years of age were arrested here this afternoon for setting fires in different places near this village. The boys at one time had built a wigwag and were playing Indians, dancing around the camp fire, and at another time they had set a fire for the purpose of testing their skill in putting it out. No damage, however resulted from any of their sport. The youngsters will be released when they have thoroughly learned that setting fires in this dry weather is a dangerous sport.

RACINE MAIN BURSTS.

Water Pipe Laid Under River at Expense of $25,000 is Reported Leaking.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The big 24-inch water main under the Root river, which was laid several months ago at an expense of $25,000 to the city, is reported to have burst and the repair will be another big expense item to the city.

A number of residents are complaining of the bursting of their waterpipes in their homes. This is said to be caused by the testing which the water department is making at present, preparatory to the annual test for leakage, which takes place next month.

GRANT COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

Big Crowd Assembled at Lancaster to Witness Laying of Cornerstone.

Lancaster, Wis., Aug. 23.—Not since the close of the war, when the soldiers' monument was unveiled, has there been so large a concourse of people assembled here in Lancaster, on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the new court house. The court house square was a sea of faces. Farmers, their families and employees left their homes and fields in the midst of harvest to lead their presence to this great occasion. Stores and banks were closed and business was suspended. A parade of great length was led by ex-Senator Charles Baxter, marshal of the day.

NEW CLUB AT LA CROSSE.

Organization of Cohasset Club Perfect—Last Evening.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 23.—A new club was organized by over 100 young men in this city and it is announced that it will be known as the Cohasset Club and that it will rival the well La Crosse Club. The new organization is composed almost entirely of men eligible to membership in the La Crosse Club, but who for various reasons are not members. Many are old-time members of the famous Winnebago Club which was abandoned last year. Handsome apartments on South Fifth street have been secured and the decorating and furnishing will be started immediately.

WILL EXHIBIT AT FAIR.

YESPER.

The picnic given on Saturday by the Woodmen lodge of this burg was spoiled both from a financial and social standpoint by the unfavorable weather that existed both afternoon and evening, the consequence being that the lodge ran behind on the day's doings. During the afternoon a fairly good crowd assembled, and some of the races were pulled off, among which were the 100 yard dash, wheelbarrow race and the girl's race. The dance was cut rather short by the rain, and in the evening festivities had to be suspended altogether on this account. The fact that Vesper needs a hall in which dances can be held was made plainly evident by Saturday's proceedings, as had there been a hall to go to when the rain started the picnic might have been continued in a manner at least, and the lodge been enabled to at least come out even.

Vesper may become a paint manufacturing center in the near future. C. S. Goldswoorthy has discovered on a piece of his land a bed of clay which had all the appearance of being good for the manufacture of mineral paint. He had some of it analyzed and the results showed that he had not been mistaken. He left on Friday for Sterling, Ill., where he had sent the specimens, for the purpose of investigating the matter more thoroughly. There is also clay in this vicinity that is thought to contain a large percentage of aluminum, which, if true, may prove of great value to the owners.

Joseph White is erecting a very neat and commodious residence on his farm. The building is 24x30 with a wing. Mr. White intends that it shall be warm, as he is having the structure back lathed and plastered as well as matched sheeting, over which there will be paper and siding. Messrs. T. J. White and E. R. Griffith of Grand Rapids are doing the carpenter work, and they will soon have it ready for the finishing.

The creamery of the Albert Dairy company is turning out about 360 pounds of butter daily, which is very good for the number of cows that are tributary to the plant. The product is all shipped to Cincinnati, Ohio, as fast as manufactured.

C. Otto is rapidly getting his store into shape, and he will soon be ready to move in. He is also building an addition, which with the upstairs will do for residence purposes.

Andrew Bissig, the popular cranberry grower of City Point called on his many friends here on Saturday.

Notice.

The following notice appeared in the Jacksonville, Ill., Courier on March 15, 1902, and will be of interest to many people in this vicinity. Mr. Noah Wellman of Peoria, Ill., for the past fifteen years a trusted employee of the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville Railroad Co., says: "I have tried different cough remedies and have never found any to be equal to Hart's Honey and Horehound for the cure of coughs, and would not be without it at hand. The children like the pleasant taste of Hart's Honey and Horehound and a trial will convince anyone of the special merit of this medicine." Large bottles twenty-five and fifty cents. Sold by Sam Church, druggist.

BABCOCK.

M. F. White of Oshkosh, general manager of the American Grass Twine Co., in company with J. J. O'Riley, the foreman for the company at this place, was inspecting their camps in this vicinity on Tuesday.

Died, on Monday, August 25th, of consumption, Mrs. Wm. Campbell, aged about twenty-two years. Mr. Campbell has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in his bereavement.

Our village schools opened on Tuesday with the following corps of teachers: Mr. Oakley as principal, Miss Malloy of Babcock in the intermediate and Miss Akey in the primary department.

Lester Cleveland gave a very enjoyable dancing party at his home, about two miles west of the village, on Friday evening.

Fred Bickhart and family, who have been visiting in Michigan for the last month, returned home on Monday evening.

I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully, and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy, and this time the dose cured me." LONG-SIGHT OR HYPERMETROPIA.

The normal eye is always round like an orange. In this defect the diameter of the eye is too short from front to rear. People with this deformity are generally born that way and it stays with them to the grave. It is usually called long sight not because the person can see first rate at a distance perhaps but because they can see much better than they can close by. School children with this defect, and you will meet them quite often, on account of the prolonged use of the eye in reading and study suffer much from fatigue. Headaches, blurring and smarting of the eyes, and a long train of unpleasant symptoms can be perfectly corrected if properly fitted with glasses.

J. W. CAMERON DEAD

END COMES WHILE DRIVING.

Had Been a Victim of Heart Disease for Some Years.—Was a Pioneer Resident of Wood County.

J. W. Cameron of Milwaukee died on Friday afternoon at three o'clock from heart disease while out driving with a friend of the family, Mrs. John C. Post. His death was practically instantaneous, as he had been conversing pleasantly with his companion when he gave a gasp and a second later lurched forward in his seat dead.

Mr. Cameron had complained some of not feeling well that morning, but had apparently recovered from a temporary indisposition and gone out driving. During his drive he met Mrs. Post and she being an intimate friend of the family he asked her to accompany him. This she did and it was while on their return journey that Mr. Cameron was stricken. Mrs. Post hailed a boy who drove them to a doctor as rapidly as possible, but Mr. Cameron was dead, and to all appearances had died instantly.

There was probably no Milwaukee man who was more intimately known throughout Wood county than Mr. Cameron. For many years he carried on lumbering operations in this county in the neighborhood of Vesper, and since then has been interested in the First National bank of this city and the First National at Marshfield, and was also a stockholder in the Grand Rapids Pulp and Paper company plant. He was president of the Cream City Sash and Door company and had numerous other interests of value. He was a man of wealth and his fortune is variously estimated at from $500,000 to $700,000.

Mr. Cameron was fifty-four years of age, and while he was said to be a sufferer from heart disease, no casual acquaintance would have suspected the fact. He had all the appearance of a man possessing a fine physique, and walked with the spring and life of a man much younger than he was, and was without a picture of health.

He leaves a wife and one son, the latter being Frank J. Cameron of the firm of Kruger & Cameron of this city.

Mr. Cameron was born in the province of Nova Scotia on June 15th, 1848, but came to this country when he was quite young and early became interested in lumbering.

Mr. Cameron came to Wood county in 1876, being then in the employ of the Wharton Bros. Lumber company, whose business he managed at Vesper. He afterward became interested in the company and it was during the twenty years that he lived at Vesper that he amassed his fortune. He discontinued operations at Vesper in 1894, at which time the place was destroyed by fire. In 1895 he removed to Milwaukee, where he has since resided.

It was during his operations at Vesper that he made his friends in this locality, for every man who ever worked for Mr. Cameron or who was thrown in contact with him in a business way are outspoken in their praise of him as a man, an employer, and a business associate.

He was a man whom wealth did not change, and the men who were his friends while he was struggling up the ladder of life were the ones he was glad to meet in after years when he had reached the top and retired from active life. It was the possession of these qualities that caused universal sorrow among his acquaintances in this city when the news of his sudden demise was received on Friday afternoon.

The funeral of Mr. Cameron was held on Monday from his home at 3200 Wells street, Milwaukee. The services were conducted by the Rev. Judson Tittsworth, and being private were attended by only relatives and most intimate friends of the deceased. The pall bearers were E. P. Arpin, C. F. Kellogg, D. J. Arpin, E. T. Harmon of this city, W. D. Connor of Marshfield, and Herman Finger of Port Arthur, Canada, all of them having been associated with Mr. Cameron at some time in a business capacity.

The remains were placed temporarily in a receiving vault at Forest Home cemetery at Milwaukee, where a mausoleum will be constructed for their final resting place.

A Merry Party.

During the past two weeks a very large outing party and a happy one has been occupying the Olson and Hiles cottage. Everything in the way of fun was indulged in and every member carries away pleasant memories of Clear Lake. The party consisted of:

Mr. and Mrs. James K. P. Hiles and daughter Kitty, and Mrs. Ella Hiles of Dexterville; Miss Lucy Woodworth of Pittsville; Mrs. W. C. Armstrong and three children of Necedah; Miss Cora Pratt, Mrs. Jennie Pratt, Messrs. Olson and William Cochran, Mrs. J. W. Cochran, Charles Whittlesey, Miss Kate Smith, Miss Retta Cleveland and Herbert Cleveland of Grand Rapids; Miss Nellie Young and Clarence Jasperperson of Neenah; Miss Harriet and Harry Whittlesey of Cranmoor; Miss Bessie Lee and Mabel Southworth of Eau Claire; Mrs. Nellie O'Brien of Necedah; Henry Vachrean of Babcock, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Olson and family of Tomahawk. They all departed during the week for their respective homes, hoping that these merry days will again repeat themselves.—Tomahawk.

Digging Under Difficulties.

At the place where the F. MacKinnon company is engaged in putting up their new building for the wagon factory considerable difficulty has been encountered in finding a solid foundation for the walls of the building. Before commencing the structure Mr. Schnabel put down a test hole, thinking he had picked out an average place, and found only three feet of muck until there was solid enough bottom for a foundation. This seemed like an easy proposition and work was commenced, when it was discovered that the spot selected was about the most shallow spot in that locality, and the result was that in some places it was found necessary to dig a distance of nine feet in order to get a bottom solid enough to support a foundation wall. This has necessarily caused a great deal of extra work and delayed the progress of the structure a great deal, as the ground is of the softest variety, and so filled with water that it is very hard to make any progress in the work.

A Delightful Trip.

Last Sunday was a day for the papermakers at Nekeosa, the occasion being their excursion to Green Lake, which was brought about by T. E. Nash, who had chartered a train from the Northwestern Railroad company especially for the use of the papermakers, their wives, families and sweethearts.

Green Lake is an ideal place to spend a day, or even a succession of days, and those of the papermakers and others who attended say that the trip was a perfect one from start to finish. A number of boats had been chartered at the lake and everybody who cared for this sort of amusement were enabled to enjoy themselves to their heart's content. About five hundred participated in the trip, there being eight coaches well filled. As the entire expense of the trip was borne by Mr. Nash, the papermakers had every reason to feel that they had been royally entertained.

"At Valley Forge"

Which will be the offering at the Grand opera house, Monday, Sept. 8, should be of exceptional interest at this time, as the scenes are laid in the so-called colonial period of our history. It is a well constructed logical drama replete with comedy and a strong heart interest, interspersed with a series of striking and powerful climaxes. The subject is a most interesting one, serving as it does to bring down from the past in an atmosphere of realism, the time and deeds of our great ancestors. The quaintness of the stage settings lend additional charm to the performance in their completeness. The cast is also highly praised as being one of unusual strength. Mr. Frederick Montague and Miss Effie Hext will be seen in the leading roles.

Martha Polansky.

Martha Polansky, the daughter of Fred Polansky, died on Tuesday morning about five o'clock from consumption, after a sickness of about a year. The deceased was 20 years, 3 months and 2 days old. She had an attack of typhoid fever about a year ago, from which she never fully recovered, and which left her in such a weakened condition that she fell a victim to consumption. The funeral occurs today from the Lutheran church in Sigel, Rev. Baese officiating.

It would seem that Mr. Polansky is having more than his share of trouble, as this is the third daughter he has lost, besides which his wife died less than a year ago.

BAND GRANTED APPROPRIATION

City Engineer Reports on Condition of Water at Pumping Station.—Other Items of Interest.

The council met in regular session on Tuesday evening. Mayor Wheelan being absent the chair was occupied by Geo. M. Hill, president of the council.

Among the interesting things was a report by Engineer Philleo, who has been engaged for several weeks past in searching for water on the land owned by the city just south of the pumping station on the east side.

Mr. Philleo stated that he had sunk six wells on the city property and one further south on the land owned by B. M. Vaughn. From these seven wells he had obtained a flow of water amounting to 56,000 gallons a day, which, however, was insufficient to supply the needs of the city. He stated that he did not consider that enough water could be secured from the property that the city owns to supply the city, and recommended that additional land be purchased from Mr. Vaughn.

When questioned concerning the probability of getting a sufficient supply provided additional land was purchased there he stated that his opinion was that there was sufficient water on the land to supply the whole of Wood county. He also stated that from the situation of the city land it was the poorest in the lot for obtaining a water supply, being at the extreme north end of the hill, while the excavations indicated the flow of water was toward the southwest.

The amount of water necessary to supply the city and leave a reasonable surplus for emergencies is 200,000 gallons daily. The west side pumping station pumps about 100,000 gallons daily, but it is considered that the east side would not use this much, as there are three railroad water tanks on the west side besides several mills and factories, all of which use a considerable amount of water, which would not be the case on the east side, so that 200,000 gallons daily would leave a surplus.

Along with Mr. Philleo's report was a proposition from Sarah Vaughan in which that lady offered to sell the city a strip of land 68 rods long and of varying width for the sum of $3,500, which included two wells on the land that have a daily flowage of some 30,000 gallons. Or if these two wells could be reserved by the present owner the land would be sold for $3,000.

This price was considered exorbitant for the land and a resolution was passed for the appointment of a committee with the power to purchase the land at a price not to exceed $1500. Mr. Hill appointed as such committee City Attorney Gaynor and aldermen Jackson and Gross.

Joseph Cohen addressed the council concerning the stone wall which he is constructing for the city across the street between the Herschleb and Kromer properties. At the last meeting of the council the sum of $200, was appropriated for the purpose of building this wall with instructions to carry it up to the level of the street. To do this would cost considerably more than the $200, and it looked very much as if the council had been figuring on Mr. Cohen starting the wall on the money the city had granted and in his enthusiasm carrying the work along at his own expense. This latter part was what Mr. Cohen objected to. He was willing to put the wall up as far as $200 would carry it or he would continue the work indefinitely provided the city would foot what bills were incurred after the appropriation was played out. After considerable discussion it was decided that the city did not need a nineteen foot wall at this particular point and permission was given to stop the work at eight or nine feet, where ever the street committee decided would be high enough.

The matter of granting the band an appropriation for the coming year was brought up by Alderman Kruger. The boys asked for thirty-five dollars a month the coming year, but this was considered more than was necessary for the purpose and the council granted the sum of $30 a month, there being only one vote against the measure, which was by Alderman Flewelling.

Alderman Pratt suggested that the city have the recent addition to the city hall covered with brick, and that the same be done immediately, so as to be finished before cold weather sets in. The matter was referred to the street committee with instructions to proceed with the work.

Louis Hesier made application for a saloon license for the purpose of operating a saloon in the Closuit building near the Green Bay depot. Same was granted.

A number of bills were allowed, after which the council adjourned until the first Tuesday in October.

Interurban Coming.—D. O. Fisher was a caller at the Tribune office last Thursday and stated that he had just returned from Stevens Point, where, in company with Mayor P. Rothman, he had been engaged in laying out the route of the proposed electric street car line. He stated that a route had been secured that was satisfactory to all parties concerned and that the building of the line was only a matter of a short time. He also stated that the Wisconsin Valley Power, Light and Traction company would be incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin by the 1st of September, and that the stockholders were all Wisconsin men.

—At Valley Forge—Which will be the attraction at the Grand opera house, Monday Sept. 8th, possesses a stirring heart story told in a logical and impressive manner. The scenes are laid in and around Old Valley Forge and historic Trenton, at the close of the great revolutionary war. Briefly the story concerns a dashing captain of General Washington's army and the pretty daughter of a Tory Colonel, and in the development of the plot the fortunes of the heroine and the hero are closely followed to the end, which comes with the fall of Yorktown and the ending of the war of the revolution. The climaxes are particularly well devised, following each other in a logical sequence. The production is spoken of as being unusual in its elegance and correctness. Mr. Frederick Montague and Miss Effie Hext will be seen in the feature roles and their support is said to include many well known names.

Marshfield's Street Fair.—The managers of the Marshfield street fair promise the people one of the finest entertainments of the kind that has been held in the state. Their subscriptions have been abundant and the managers have secured the best attractions that it was possible to get, and as a consequence they are justified in expecting something out of the ordinary. The grand show has been cut down to three days, as the management felt that if they entertained their visitors for this length of time and did it properly that they would have their hands full. The dates that have been set are the 25th, 26th, and 27th of September, beginning on Thursday morning and closing Saturday night.

Improvements Started.—Work was commenced on the stone wall which will be built back of L. Kromer's and Cohen Bros. places on the east side of the river on Thursday last. This means that as soon as the wall is completed work will commence on the new building which Mr. Cohen intends to erect. This will mean a great improvement in the appearance of the main street on the east side, as the two buildings that will be torn out to make room for the new place are anything but ornate where they now stand. Mr. Cohen's new building will be a nice two story brick structure.

Nacht-Schlig.—On Thursday forenoon last occurred the marriage of Miss Angelina Schlig to Emil Nacht, the ceremony occurring at the Catholic church at Rudolph, Rev. VanSever officiating. Nic Wirtz and Miss Hattie Wipfli acted as groomsmen and bridesmaid for the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Nacht left on the same day for Green Bay and other points on a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home at Aldort, where Mr. Nacht is a prosperous young farmer. The Tribune unites with their many friends in wishing them happiness on their journey through life.

A New Computing Machine.—For some time past George Krieger, the machinist, has been working on a new computing machine, and he states that he has the theory of the concern all worked out, although as yet he has not finished a complete working model. The new machine when completed will compute interest and percentage as well as wages, and Mr. Krieger states that it will be the most complete affair of the kind ever invented. As he has not as yet secured any patents on the contrivance no description of it can be given.

Cofferdam Flooded.—On Tuesday the workmen who are engaged in putting in the stone wall back of L. Kromer's place had just got their cofferdam nicely pumped out and all ready to commence laying stone on the wall, when a rise of the river of about two feet filled the whole works with water again and left the top of the dam about a foot under water. This naturally delayed matters considerably, and the men have since been engaged in raising the structure and preparing for a continued siege of high water.

State Fair Exhibit.—L. M. Nash, chairman of the immigration committee, reports that a fairly good number have responded to the call for stuff to exhibit at the state fair and that the prospects are that we will be able to make a creditable showing down at Milwaukee. All of the arrangements have been completed and it is probable that the products will be shipped tomorrow or next day in order to be placed before the fair opens, which occurs next Monday.

Shot in the Leg.—Sam, the son of Jas. K. P. Hiles of Dexterville, was shot in the leg with a charge of bird shot on Tuesday. He was out hunting with Henry Bronson when the latter shot at a prairie chicken and a part of the load struck Sam. Dr. Waters went over and picked out the shot from the young man's nether extremities and it is thought that he will suffer no inconvenience from the accident.

Skinned by Wausau.—The base ball boys went to Wausau on Sunday and were defeated by a score of 9 to 6. It was a good game and the home boys claim if they had been playing against Wausau and not members of the state league they could have won out. Little defeats like this will happen occasionally, however, and the boys have no reason to feel sore about the matter.

Laying out Route.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company had a gang of men here laying out the route for the toll line which the company intends to build into this city. The line will run from Tomah to this city, and will be built of heavy copper wire, so as to facilitate talking as much as possible. They will build two circuits into this city to begin with.

Barking at The Moon.

The Pittsville Pilot takes an imaginary fall out of one of our citizens a couple of weeks ago by stating that it is the intention of the Democrats to run "one of the Arpins for member of assembly" by saying that a man who runs a mill and works his men eleven hours a day is so man for that position. In the same breath the Pilot man suggests the name of Jas. K. P. Hiles as a candidate for the office. Now we don't know whether the Arpins work their men eleven hours a day or not but if they do we'll bet dollars to doughnuts that they get paid for eleven hours work, so that we cannot see that this need to rankle in the bosom of the Pilot man. As to Mr. Hiles: If the Democrats see fit to nominate him the Tribune will be pleased to support him. They could go further and do worse. What is worrying the Republicans just now is the fear that Mr. Arpin will accept the nomination, as one of them admitted within the week that if Mr. Arpin headed the ticket he did not see much chance of the Republicans winning in Wood county. It must be that the Pilot man, who admits that he is with the fellow that puts up the most boodle, is casting his eye toward the Democratic "bar!" Probably he will find before he gets through with it that the Democrats do not elect their men that way.

Hello Girls Going.

For some time past the newspapers of the county have contained vague reports concerning a new mechanical contrivance that was to take the place of the girl at the central telephone station. While the public has read these reports and probably believed that such a contrivance might some day be invented, it is probable that no one put much time worrying over the matter, thinking that the invention would be like some of Nikola Tesla's materializing. But it seems that it was not all a josh. Already in Chicago there are being installed the machines to dispense with the telephone girl, and if they will work in a city that does the telephone business that Chicago does, they will work anywhere. With the new contrivance in successful operation all one will have to do is to press the proper buttons, take down the receiver, and there you are. Being a machine, and working automatically, no mistakes can be made, and if you call up the meat market and get the foundry it's nobody's fault but your own. When there is a defenseless girl at the switchboard who has no big brothers, a momentary wrong can be partially righted by calling down the girl, but with the machine at the other end all this will be changed. Cussing at the way things are run at central will then be about as effective as going out and telling your troubles to a policeman or a stone wall. There won't be anybody there to hear you. You can't ring up central and ask where the fire is, or who called you while you were gone, nor to ask what time it is, or any of those little things that the operator is supposed to be authority on. Just a whirr, a buzz and a final click, and that ends the matter. Verily, life will be a dreary waste when the telephone girl goes.

Wants to Know.

The Pittsville Pilot propounds several very important questions in its last issue. One of them is as follows:

"We see the Marshfield Times and Grand Rapids Reporter are publishing the only election notices that are being printed. We would like to know the reason. The Pilot is located in a more central location and is read by more bona fide voters than any other Wood county paper. These notices should be placed where the people will read them."

Another query says: "We would like to ask the parties who have control of the county printing at the county seat why this end of the world is not favored with its share?"

These questions will probably continue to be knotty problems to the Pilot man just as long as he remains in the newspaper business. However, if we might be allowed to make a suggestion we would say that the reason for all this is probably because he does not stand in with the powers that be. He may have the largest subscription list in the county, run the brightest editorials, and publish the most local news as he claims, but he should remember that the public is slow to appreciate true merit, and probably the best thing he can do is to hope for reward in the hereafter.

A man with the true journalistic spirit does not care for the money that is connected with the business. In fact he would rather not be corrupted by receiving the filthy lucre. Just an occasional pleasant look is all any man can ask for in this line. There was a man once upon a time who had become imbued with the idea that it was necessary to have money to run a newspaper. He went to one of his delinquents and urgently requested that he pay something on account, winding up with the assertion that he could not run the paper entirely on credit.

"Well," said the delinquent, angrily "why in thunder don't you sell out to somebody that can?"

This ought to make the matter clear to anyone who is engaged or contemplates engaging in the newspaper business.

Fortune Favors a Texan.

"Having distressing pains in head, back and stomach, and being without appetite, I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes W. E. Whitehead, of Kennedale, Tex. "and soon felt like a man." "Infallible" for stomach and liver troubles. Only 25c at John E. Daly's drug store.

Over the Telephone.

The Appleton Post has the following to say regarding the habits of those who use the telephone: "Hello who is this?" How many times a day are business men, housewives, men and maidens of all classes forced to stand at a phone and return an answer to this impertinent question. It is probable that residents of Appleton are no more negligent about observing the unwritten laws of telephone etiquette than people in other cities, but a reform might just as well be started here as elsewhere. Any person of ordinary good breeding should be able to sit down and figure out that when he calls up another person he should not make that person take the initiative in beginning the conversation. If he expects to find John Smith at the other end of the wire, he should say, "Hello, is this John Smith?" not "Hello, who is this?" The same ruling will apply to the impertinent query, "Where is this?"

These flagrant breaches of the rules of telephone etiquette are by no means the only ones. Taking them as an example, when you have called a person to the phone and wish to speak with him later you would, "I will call you up later," instead of "Call me up later." "Get your face nearer the phone" or "Stand 3 feet to the left" should not be tolerated. It were far better that the conversation were discontinued altogether. There is a good opening for some polite Alphonso and Gaston of the telephone to come to the city and instruct people regarding their telephone manners.

Meanwhile those who hope to improve might pin their faith to some such little motto as, Talk to another as you would be talked to face to face."

Stockholders Meeting.

The stockholders of the First National bank held a meeting last week and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: E. T. Harmon, president; Isaac P. Witter, vice president; Geo. W. Meade, cashier; A. G. Miller, assistant cashier. The business of the bank is in a flourishing condition, and notwithstanding the change in the officers it will be the effort to serve the patrons of the institution in the future the same as has been done in the past, and although Mr. Harmon, who has been at the head of the bank for the past nine years as cashier, has retired from this position, this will make no differences in the business methods of the concern.

Notice.

Having been in Grand Rapids one year and wishing to have my books in proper condition, I would request that all persons who owe me accounts come and settle same at my office where such accounts are due or past due. Accounts that are not settled will be placed in the hands of a collector. DR. F. D. HUMPHREY.

A Runaway.—A team belonging to Wm. Corcoran took fright when near the court house on Sunday, and Mr. Corcoran's wife and two daughters were thrown from the rig. Mrs. Corcoran was shaken up somewhat by her fall but the others escaped without injury.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Antoni Karowski, who lives one-half mile from Pittsville, lost his barn, granary and contents on Aug. 28th by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown as only the little children were home when it occurred. He carried insurance in the Seneca, Sigel and Rudolph Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and the loss was adjusted for $337.70.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sunderlin of Vesper were city callers on Monday and transacted legal business at Justice Getts' office. Mr. and Mrs. Sunderlin are proprietors of the hotel at Vesper and anyone calling upon them will find them pleasant people to deal with. They were formerly residents of Sterling, Ill., but came to Wood county to make it their home.

Misses Mayme Gray and Fannie Barette are visiting friends at Wausau. It is reported that upon retiring the first night of their visit these young ladies blew out the gas in their room, with the result that they were nearly asphyxiated, the smell of the escaping gas attracting the attention of the other members of the household to the mistake they had made.

John McCann suffered a stroke of paralysis on Thursday of last week, and he was unconscious for about twenty-four hours. It was expected at the time that he would not be able to withstand the shock, but since regaining consciousness he has improved rapidly and there is no question that he will soon be able to be about again if he continues to grow better at the same speed. One thing that was thought to be against his recovery was the fact that this was the third stroke he has suffered.

"In dealing with man, remember that a spoonful of oil will go farther than a gallon of vinegar." The same may be said of children. There is nothing so good for children as the old-fashioned castor oil. However much they may abhor it, it is their best medicine for disorders of the bowels. In the more severe cases of diarrhoea and dysentery however, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given after the oil operates, and a quick cure is sure to follow. For sale by Johnson Hill & Co. and Wood County Drug Co.

—John Dengler's Capital for 5 cents is a gentleman's smoke.

W. Gross & Co. moved into their new stand on the corner of Cranberry and French streets on Saturday evening and have since been busily engaged in getting things straightened around. This necessarily requires a lot of work, but they have made such good progress that on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week they will hold their opening, on which occasion they will serve coffee to their friends and provide them with a souvenir. A large plate glass window has been put in the north side which adds greatly to the display facilities, and the entire building both outside and in has been repainted, which is another improvement. The new store will make a very desirable location when the firm has everything in shape.

Against the Candidate.

An Indiana editor announces the approach of the fall campaign this-wise. "Behold the candidate! He cometh up like a flower but retreateth from the race busted. His friends fill him with false hopes and atmosphere. He swelleth like a toad and calleth the earth his'n. He smileth upon mankind and sloppeth over with good humor. He kisses the children and scattereth the microbes among innocent babes. He privily cheweth a clove when he meeteth a preacher, and as he converseth with him in a pious tone he standeth and curbeth his breath with a strong bit. He goeth home late at night to his weary wife with a beery breath. He hicketh forth, without breakfast, saying, 'I go to see a man.' The dead beat who leth around in wait then pulleth his leg." He "naileth" a lie, but before election day cometh he is out of nails. He giveth liberally to the church; he subscribeth a goodly sum for the blind; he contributeth to the man whose barn was burned; he bestoweth aims; he signeth his friends note, he sendeth a small keg hither and a large keg thither; he yieldeth up his substance with apparent alacrity. After election he goeth out back of the barn and kicketh himself and tearth his hair and calleth himself a rorterdam fool."

THOUSAND IN PERIL.

Italian Steamer is Run Down in New York Bay by a British Steamship.

New York, Aug. 28.—The incoming Italian royal mail steamer Liguria, with 1100 passengers on board, was run down in the harbor at the entrance of the city by the British steamship Pecos. The accident happened in broad daylight yesterday afternoon.

The Italian's hull was cut to the water line, and in an instant there was a frightful panic on board. The vessel was in flames from Naples and carried twenty-one saloons, twenty-two second cabins and 955 stowage passengers.

Passengers Hard to Control. The officers of the Liguria restrained the panic-stricken passengers with difficulty. The men, women and children had crowded the decks, gazing with eagerness at the shores of the new land to which they were coming to seek fortune and home.

When the two steamers crashed together the screams of the frightened passengers were plainly heard on shore. Tons of water began to pour into the great hole in the side of the Liguria, and the steamer listed to port so fast that it was a matter of time before the vessel would turn turtle.

Drives All Across the Ship. Capt. Monzano preserved admirable presence of mind, and in a few minutes drove the panic-stricken passengers over to the starboard side of the vessel. The weight of 1100 passengers suddenly thrown on one side caused a heavy list to starboard, raising the hole cut by the Pecos far above the water.

This prompt action on the part of the Italian captain doubtless saved the vessel from sinking and prevented what would otherwise have been the worst marine disaster of recent years.

Pilot Blames the Pecos. The pilot who brought the Liguria into port, Frank Kramer, said that the fault was all with the Pecos. He said the Liguria was coming along slowly toward the Narrows. The Pecos, which was a British steamer, bounded out for Nassau, were screaming to sea a short distance apart when the Pecos blew two whistles and then changed the signals. The Liguria steamed to starboard and then backed at full speed. The impact came with terrific force, the sound being heard on the shore.

The Pecos was so damaged that it had to return for repairs. The Liguria, after the inspection of passengers at quarantine, proceeded to its dock.

CAUGHT IN THE FAR WEST.

Sheriff of Menominee County, Mich., Apprehends Charles Vroman—Echo of Freeman Case.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Sheriff John Stiles of Menominee county has telegraphed from Whitcomb, Wash., that he had captured Charles Vroman, who was wanted here for the alleged defrauding of the cedar firm of Baber & Watson of the sum of $7111.65. The sheriff started yesterday on his return trip with the prisoner. This is but another step taken in the Freeman case, as Vroman was working as inspector at Iron Mountain, Mich., for Baber & Watson, under the direction of A. V. Freeman, who is now serving a term in the state prison at Marquette for forgery and embezzlement, charges preferred by the same firm.

There were two Vromans, and both of them are said to have left Iron Mountain at the same time, shortly before Freeman's flight, and it was supposed that they had gone to South America. Baber & Watson, however, put Pinkerton detectives on the case and they have ever since been quietly working on every possible clue. At last Charles Vroman was located in Washington, where he had taken up a homestead. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest and Sheriff Stiles set out for the far West.

WILL CONTEST AVOIDED.

Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Gelrichs Settle with Mrs. Fair's Relatives by Paying Them $500,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—Mrs. Herman Gelrichs and Mrs. K. V. Vanderbilt, Jr., by the payment of which is currently reported to be $500,000 put an end to all danger of a contest of the will of Charles L. Fair or of his wife, recently killed in an automobile accident in France.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, Mrs. Fair's mother, Abraham Nelson and Charles K. Smith signed deeds transferring all their claims to Charles Fair's estate, and Caroline Fair's property to the two sisters.

The only possibility of any future trouble being the discovery of a late will of Charles Fair, leaving property to others than his kindred and his wife. Charles Fair's estate includes real estate worth fully $7,000,000. Mrs. Fair's estate was worth about $250,000.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE.

Large Tract of Farm and Timber Land Devastated in Vicinity of Lake Linden, Mich.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Forest fires have destroyed hundreds of acres of farm and timber land in the vicinity of Lake Linden and near Rice and Mud lakes. Yesterday smoke and flames could be seen above the forests near East Lake Linden, and about the fire advance farmers in the vicinity of Lake Linden will have a hard fight to save their crops. An enormous tract of timber covered with brush and undergrowth has been devastated, but the extent of the territory covered by the fire or the damage done cannot be ascertained.

Illusion Complete. During a sham fight an old general came unawares upon a soldier who was lying fast asleep in a bed among the corn.

"Is this your post?" exclaimed the general, rousing him with the full intention of making an example of him. The soldier, thus suddenly startled out of his slumber, rubbed his eyes, and on recognizing the officer sprang to his feet, presented arms, and said: "Yes, your pardon, general, but we were going through a sham fight, and in order to make an illusion more complete I was just pretending to be dead."—New York Daily News.

TROOPS CLUB RIOTERS.

Half a Dozen Strikers are Bayoneted by Soldiers.

TO PROTECT WORKMEN.

Demand is Made that the Town of Lansford, Pa., be Placed Under Martial Law.

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 29.—In an encounter between troops and strikers at Lansford this morning, Capt. W. H. Heim of Co. K, Twelfth Regiment, was slightly injured. A half dozen strikers were bayoneted by the soldiers as a result of the fracas. Maj. Gearhart, in command of the troops here, states that he will appeal to the military authorities to put the town of Lansford under martial law.

From daybreak the troops were active in quelling disturbances and protecting nonunion men while on their way to work. As has been the case for the past few days, the troops were feared wherever they went. The officers repeatedly admonished the crowds not to insult or molest the soldiers, but their words had but little effect. At 5 o'clock Cos. K and F were placed in two trolley cars. One of the cars was run in front of the car which carried the nonunion men to work and the other in the rear. While passing through Coalade and Lansford the soldiers were hooted.

Mob Makes a Rush. At Summit Hill about double the usual number of men availed themselves of the protection of the soldiers and went to work. The picture of the strikers made efforts to stop them but the warnings of the soldiers held them at bay. When the workmen had been loaded onto the cars the return trip through the valley commenced. The word that more men would be coming spread through the lower part of the valley and in a short time the streets were almost blocked with people. When the corner of Center and East Berthel streets was reached the cars stopped to allow several nonunion men to get off. As the cars were stopped the mob made a rush for them. A half dozen soldiers sprang off the car and with leveled guns forced the strikers back and made a passageway for the nonunion men.

When the soldiers returned after escorting their charges to a place of safety the mob commenced to close in around the cars. The strikers were in an ugly mood and when ordered to disperse merely yelled louder and pressed closer. As Capt. Heim of Co. K was about to jump the mob a car was seized around the legs and thrown to the ground. A half dozen privates who followed him were roughly handled. One of the men had a portion of his shirt torn off and, according to the enlisted men and the officers, a number of blows were struck. Maj. Gearhart was in command of the two companies, then ordered his men to dismount.

Clubbed Guns and Fixed Bayonets. With clubbed guns and fixed bayonets the soldiers forced the crowd back. Many of the strikers stood their ground and would not move until the soldiers jabbed them with their bayonets. Some of the strikers, fearing that the troops would fire, rushed into the opera house on the corner and hid. A wild scene of confusion reigned. In about five minutes the crowd had been pushed back to the curb line. In the melee several of the strikers were knocked down, while others suffered slight bayonet wounds. Capt. Heim was severely bruised by his fall.

Last night a crowd of timber which was standing on the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company's tracks at Summit Hill, was started down the steep stretch of road which leads to Lansford. The car leaped the track at a sharp curve and was hurled to the bottom of a mine-bench.

At midnight the governor's troop, Capt. Weaver, was sent to Summit Hill to protect the home of William Henry, a nonunion man. It was reported that the strikers were firing on the house. A part of the troop remained on guard there all night.

MEN ARE ORDERED OUT.

Demand that Nonunionists be Removed and Old Hands Taken Back Denied.

Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 29.—A committee of the striking employees of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company called at the office of General Manager Lord and demanded that the colored nonunion workmen from Reading and other places be removed from the mine and the old hands be taken back. This was refused.

The committee then returned and reported the matter to their leaders and a few moments later the men still at work, some 1800, were told to come out. The order was obeyed almost to a man, and promptly at 9 o'clock all left the big plant.

The plant, when in full operation, employs nearly 3000 men and boys. When the first strike occurred, sixteen weeks ago, about 800 men quit. The others remained in the plant, and the entire plant is idle with the exception of that portion manned by the newcomers.

Not Accountable to Coal Barons. Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 29.—When the coal troops reached Thurmond, a preserve order and protect property in the mine region a request was made of Assistant Adj. Gen. Huron to report to the operators at Rush Run for instructions. He refused point blank and said he was there with troops to enforce order and protect the property of the county to preserve order and not to take instructions from operators. Sheriff Daniel then took three companies and the signal corps to Rush Run to guard the pit in roads and protect the property of the remainder of the troops bivouacked at Thurmond.

The output in the New River held yesterday was $800, about one-tenth of the usual amount.

Company's Plans Frustrated. Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 29.—Serious trouble was threatened at the Prospect and Heritage mines of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company this morning. The strikers heard a rumor last night that the company intended to concentrate all its employees at the various mines into one working force and operate the Dorance colliery. It is said the company has said that about 250 experienced men in its employ. If this number could be placed in one colliery like the Dorance, the mining of coal could go on without difficulty. The strikers determined to frustrate the plans of the company, and they turned out and patrolled the roads leading to the mines. The officials of the coal company realized the serious condition of affairs and Sheriff Jacobs was routed out of bed at an early hour. He went to the scene accompanied by a large number of deputies, but no attempt was made to place any additional men in the Dorance mine this morning and the strikers made no demonstration, many of them withdrawing to their homes.

AIDED THE REBELS.

Columbia to Make a Formal Demand on Nicaragua for an Explanation.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Columbia will formally demand of Nicaragua an explanation in regard to the latter country's alleged participation in the revolution against the Colombia government and back up her demand with the most formidable land and naval force she can muster, as soon as the present rebel activity on the isthmus has been crushed. Information to this effect was received from an authoritative source in Washington today.

Shortly after Minister Corea's arrival in Nicaragua, where he went some weeks ago on a leave of absence, the Colombian officials here received information to the effect that arms and ammunition for the Colombian rebels on the isthmus were being shipped from Columbia. It develops that the purchase of the well-armed vessels at Seattle as well as several prospective purchases of warships for the Colombian navy have Nicaragua rather than the present troubles on the isthmus in view.

Senor Concha, the Colombian minister here, has received a cablegram from Gen. Salazar, governor of the state of Panama, declaring that Gen. Berri, with the Colombian government forces, is still in possession of Agua Dulce, and that the prospects are favorable for a maintenance of that situation. Gov. Salazar says that the report of an imminent capitulation to the rebel forces is unfounded. He also states that the rebels who are besieging him are in a sore plight because of the untenable condition of the territory which they now occupy.

ATTACKED BY REBELS.

Severe Fighting at Carupano, Venezuela, in Which Many Were Killed.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 29.—The German steamer Polaria, which arrived here today from Venezuela ports, reports that Friday last, August 25, while at Carupano, Venezuela, 700 rebels attacked that place and burned it and got inside the town, where they were met by 1000 government troops under Gen. Volcan. The fighting lasted the whole day, followed and ended in the disorderly retreat of the rebels, several of the latter being killed or wounded.

When the Polaria left Carupano the Venezuelan government officials there were in fear of another and more serious attack on the place. Trade was completely crippled and many atrocities were reported.

ABOUT TO ELOPE.

Monroe, Mich., Aug. 29.—Walter Lemerand, lately from Toledo, O., came home this noon and found a man, a Frenchman, in the house with his wife. A quarrel ensued, the unknown finally running from the house. An officer was tempted to arrest him, when he ran down Third street, a crowd pursuing.

The cry "assault" was raised and the mob began to shoot. The unknown ran into a cornfield, where he was shot dead, a bullet penetrating his chest. The woman denies that there was any assault.

An inquest is being held. The two men whose shots killed the victim are known and arrests will soon ensue.

Mrs. Lemerand says: The man was sitting in the parlor with me when my husband came home. There was nothing wrong.

She would not reveal the man's name. Mrs. Lemerand has just told the sheriff that the dead man is Joseph La Barge, 319 Cherry street, Toledo. She says that she and La Barge had planned an elopement.

An autopsy is now being performed on La Barge's body and the inquest will be held tomorrow. No arrests will be made until after the inquest.

The instrument throughout is anticipatory of marriage, though it was executed March 22, 1897, long before Remington became engaged to Miss Van Allen. It provides that if he leaves a widow she will have the bulk of any estate, but there is no provision for an engagement. The will provided that if he left neither wife or issue his estate was to go to his sister, Maria H., or her issue. His brother is not mentioned.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 29.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Stockings baseball team, today unconditionally dismissed Pitcher Virgil Garvin from further service with the club. NEW POST FOR BRAGG.

SAID TO HAVE RECEIVED INTIMATION FROM ROOSEVELT.

Plan to Transfer Consul General from Havana to Some Point in British South Africa.

Havana, Aug. 28.—It is reported in Havana that Gen. Bragg has received an intimation from President Roosevelt, sent through the state department at Washington, that a request for a transfer from the Havana to the consul generalship of the United States soon to be created with jurisdiction in British South Africa would meet with the approval of the chief executive.

Gen. Bragg declines to discuss the question. He has expected for some time to be recalled one way or another. E. J. Steinhardt of Porto Rico, formerly chief clerk to Bragg, and Brooke under the foreign government of military occupation, who was left in Cuba by Gen. Wood in charge of the United States war department archives having relation to this island, is mentioned as the possible successor to Bragg. Mr. Steinhardt is quite popular and regarded as possessing the necessary diplomatic qualities to fill the position satisfactorily. As consul general of Cuba he would be regarded with favor.

Col. Joseph Springer, the acting vice consul general, is another candidate, and it is understood he has very strong political backing at Washington. Cuba is very bitter against Bragg. The contention is that the government cannot well get out of recalling him, inasmuch as an offensive is already in progress which caused the return to Spain from the United States of Dupey de Lome, the Spanish minister, who insulted President McKinley and the American people in a private letter, which later reached the public press.

FIND WATERY GRAVES.

Rowboat Run Down by Steamer and Occupants Thrown Into Water—Five are Drowned.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Five members of a boating party of six employees of the Battle Creek sanitarium were drowned last night in Lake Gogebic. Their rowboat was run down by the steamer Welcome. The dead: MABEL RICHARD, aged 26, stenographer, Battle Creek; LIZZIE BRADY, 25, nurse, residence unknown; DELLA DORSEY, 21, nurse, Allegheer, Pa.; FANNIE WILLIS, nurse, home near Toronto, Ont.; C. F. BENNETT, male nurse, Dallas, Tex.

Miss Carrie Brock, the other occupant of the capsized boat, was rescued. Bennett had been rowing the young ladies about the lake and the party was returning to the sanitarium villa about 10 o'clock just as the little steamer Welcome was leaving the dock with an excursion party. In some way as yet unexplained the Welcome ran the rowboat down. The small boat was struck amidship and the hull crushed. All the occupants were thrown into the water.

Miss Brock managed to catch hold of the overturned boat and hung to it until the bodies of Miss Brady and Miss Richard were found floating on the water. They had evidently been killed by the collision or they would have sunk as did their companions. Dragging for the bodies of the others was immediately begun, and at 2:30 all had been recovered and were brought to this city. All of the victims except Miss Richard were members of the new class of nurses at the sanitarium.

Dover, Eng., Aug. 28.—Frank Holmes of Birmingham, who started from Dover at 5 o'clock this morning in an effort to swim the English channel, was seized with cramps and abandoned the attempt when six miles out.

Montague Holbein failed in his attempt to swim across the English channel. He was taken out of the water when a mile from Dover.

Holbein had to be helped out of the water, being too exhausted to struggle any longer against the westward tide. He stayed in the water twenty-two hours and twenty-one minutes.

BRIDE'S SHOCKING DEATH.

Ties Her Head to Gas Fixture with Jet in Her Mouth and Then Turns on the Gas.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 28.—Apparently driven frantic by the fear that she might some time become insane, Mrs. John McCurdy, a bride of less than three months has killed herself in a peculiarly shocking manner. Having first undressed she put on a wig, then she turned on the gas of the dining room table, and having placed her mouth over one of the jets on the chandelier, tied her head firmly by means of heavy cords wound tightly around her neck. Then she turned on the gas.

When her husband came home he found her in this position, and he was so horrified by the sight that he called the police and had her removed to the hospital, where she died.

UNKNOWN SHIP BURNS.

Vessel Near Menominee, Mich., in Badly Damaged—Crew is Probably Safe.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 29.—An unknown vessel burned off Menominee last night, and great crowds of persons lined the shores of the bay watching the scene. A fire tug and the tug O. M. Field left Menominee to give aid, and the fire tug could be seen at work about the blazing ship. Many persons believed that, they saw men walking around on the burning vessel, whose identity had not been learned.

Assistance might have been rendered the burning vessel early in the evening had not the captain of the steamer City of Marquette believed the blaze to come from a shanty on shore. Later the blaze was seen to come from the boat, which gradually drew nearer shore.

The discovery that the fire was from a vessel was made simultaneously on the passenger steamer and on shore. When the truth became known the passenger boat was run far away to give help, and the fire tug was first on the scene. When last seen it was thought the fire tug had the burning ship in tow, and was throwing water on the fire, which was nearly out.

Nothing more definite in regard to the burning vessel is known so far. The fire tug and tug O. M. Field returned late last night. Although it appeared from shore in twilight that the fire tug was towing the burning vessel into the bay, the captains of the tugs say they went six or eight miles up the shore, but before they arrived they had become dark. They did not get within two miles of the burning vessel, as she had drifted near shore, and the tugs were afraid of running aground or on rocks.

Unless some fisherman comes down today or some tug goes to the scene the name of the burning vessel will not be known.

WOMAN FALLS FROM SECOND STORY WINDOW.

Aged Vermont Lady Visiting at St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—Mrs. C. R. Marsh of Holland, Vt., was fatally injured by falling from the second-story window of the Kendall hotel today. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and her death is but a question of hours.

How the accident happened is not known. Mrs. Marsh is too weak to tell. She is 72 years old and terribly nervous. She has both legs broken and her spine injured. She has been a sufferer from nervous prostration and was en route home from a visit with relatives at Portland, Ore.

It is conjectured that Mrs. Marsh had gone to the window to get air and toppled head foremost through the window. She fell a distance of thirty feet onto an asphalt paved alley way.

That very evening Captain Grant was made the recipient of a letter purporting to come from Roger Darrel, in which the time, place and weapons were named. When the early dawn came, his second was with him, and together they set out for the place appointed as a rendezvous.

At some time in the dim past it had been ground consecrated to burial purposes, and the weeping willows still swayed their long, slender branches over a few stones that were half hidden in the tall, rank grass.

Hardly had they come to a pause when a couple of forms appeared among the trees and advanced to where they were standing. To the surprise of the Captain neither of these was Roger Darrel. Before he could comment on this fact, however, the strangers had arrived close to them.

One was a handsome man, the other a tall, willowy youth, with a small, dark mustache. The latter's hat was so arranged as to hide part of his face, but the flashing eyes seemed to pierce the Captain through and through, and somehow he shivered as though seized with theague.

"You are in time, gentlemen," said the handsome man in a musical voice.

"We are well aware of that, sir, but how is this? I do not see your principal," returned Lieut. Carson.

"He is here," said the youth, quietly.

His words produced something of a sensation, and Lieut. Carson laughed.

"There is some mistake," he said; "we came out to meet another."

"That other will not be here, and in order that the gentleman should not be disappointed in meeting a Virginian, my friend here is willing to cross blades with you," and the handsome man indicated with his hand his comrade.

Captain Grant laughed aloud.

"I have passed through some strange scenes in my life, but I assure you, gentlemen, this beats them all. What do you take me for? My life is certainly valuable to me at least; therefore, you will pardon me if I decline to risk it in an engagement with one with whom I have no quarrel."

The face of the youth redden a trifle, as though the voice of the Captain, more than the words he uttered, touched some hidden chord deep in his heart.

"Are we to understand that you refuse to fight, then?" inquired the handsome stranger.

"Exactly. If my foe has been cowardly enough to send some one in his place—"

"Hold!" cried the youth, in a strangely stern voice, "say no more. The gentleman never sent an answer to your challenge. Probably there will one come to-day, but I mean to place you in a condition where accepting it will be out of the question. It was my friend who wrote you, and I am here to keep my agreement. You are a coward if you do not fight me," and he whispered a name in the duelist's ear.

"Your object is fully accomplished, my friend. Who you are, and what the cause of your family may be, I know not; but that is now a small matter with me. I see your friend has swords with him. We will test their temper."

He took one of the blades offered to him almost without a thought, and tried it over his knee. They were of the finest material, and the eyes of the duelist lighted up with satisfaction when he discovered this fact, for he loved a good sword above all things.

At a given signal the long swords crossed, and the duel had begun. The steel blades whirled, twisted, and quivered like so many serpents, and yet so well matched were the two antagonists that it seemed impossible for either to accomplish the desired result.

Like lightning flashes, the sword of the stranger passed through the Captain's sword arm, and at almost the same moment his hand was plucked from his wrist, and sent whirling away among the grass-covered gravestones.

Then, while the point of the stranger's sword touched his breast, he saw him raise his hand and dexterously remove the false mustache. A shower of ringlets fell about the white neck of the man of mystery.

Captain Grant glared wadly at the beautiful face.

"You," he cried, "are you alive and here? What nightmare is this? Speak, and tell me, Nora Warner!"

CHAPTER IV.

In all his life Captain Grant had never suffered such a defeat, and what made it all the more bitter was the fact that it came from the hand of a woman whom, for reasons best known to himself, he had come to hate most heartily.

Eye looked into eye, but that of the duelist could not stand before the mad glare in the orbs of his vis-a-vis, and he let his gaze fall. At last she spoke, and her voice was trembling with deep emotion.

"As you see, I am alive and here, scoundrel and impostor. The grave could not hold me nor the mad house contain me. From death I have come to life, and now let those who have injured me tremble, for my heart is turned toward vengeance, and I shall never cease until my wrongs of the past are righted. This is my first blow."

"For the present we will cry quits, but the time will come in the future when you shall be repaid for this, curses on you, woman or fiend, whichever you are," he grated between his set teeth.

The handsome man uttered a sharp cry, as if he had been struck a blow, and, leaping forward, would have slapped the Captain in the face, but that the woman duelist held him back.

"This is not your quarrel yet, Jack. Wait until I have failed to accomplish my vow, and then remember your oath," she said hastily.

"Perhaps you are right, but when that time comes this cur will have to suffer for those words. If you have done what you came here to do, let us be gone."

"My work for the present is done. I have prevented him from meeting the man he hates."

Turning, the strange girl led her comrade away. Who this mysterious "Jack" was, the Captain had not the remotest idea, and yet several times a spasm of fear shot like a dart through his heart, as if guilt warned him that there was a reckoning between him and this personage that must sooner or later be settled in full.

Of course, when Roger's acceptance was brought to the Captain, he was forced to postpone it for the time, and the gentleman who carried it to him thought he was wise when he saw the wounds he had received.

The young Virginian was disappointed when he learned how matters stood, for since the meeting in the avenue of elms, and the challenge, he had been in a perfect fever to meet this impudent duelist.

It gave him pain to even look in the direction of Richmond Terrace, and he made up his mind to go abroad once more. Having arrived at this determination, the young master of Darrel Chase counted the days that must elapse before he could put his idea into execution.

The shadows were gathering late one afternoon, and twilight was rapidly settling over the land, when Roger made his way in the direction of his home. While he was yet within a mile or so of Darrel Chase, he was astonished to see a female figure rise up before him and bar his way.

She was a young woman with great, black, velvety eyes, and a face of the pure oval type, and slightly olive in color, though he had not much chance to observe it just then, as she hastened to speak.

"We are well met, Roger Darrel. You have the same nerves of iron, I see, that owned you master before, and not for your life would you by start or word own that you recognized me, and yet there is not a person in the wide world who would hate to meet more."

Her words were force and venomous, and, leaning forward, she let her great black eyes rest upon his face as though she would read his very soul. The man looked at her keenly. One might have thought that he was now looking upon her face for the first time.

"Who are you?" he asked at last.

The other did not seem to know at first whether to get angry or laugh, but finally did the latter, and there was something cold in her forced merriment that made him shiver.

"Behold in me a gypsy girl, daughter of a queen, whom the silver tongue of a serpent lured away from the home of her people. She was outlawed from her tribe and deserted by the white-faced traitor whom she had loved and trusted with her whole heart and soul. What, then, had she to live for but revenge?"

The hand of the gypsy maid had been creeping toward her bosom all the while, and at this juncture she flashed a shining siletto into view. Roger Darrel caught her by the wrist with a grasp of iron.

"Girl," he said, sternly, "what would you do?"

"Do!" she hissed; "I would kill you, snake in the grass that lured me from happiness to a living death. I would sever your black heart with this trusty blade, dedicated to that purpose. Think not to escape the terrible vengeance of the gypsy girl. She has followed you over land and sea, waiting for the hour to strike, the hour when you would be most happy, and when life would be most dear to you. A short time ago it seemed that that hour had come, and Barbara Merries struck the first blow. Now, when she has helped to blight your life she comes before you, ready to finish the work with her dagger. You are doomed, Roger Darrel, doomed."

"A fig for your threats, Barbara Merries. True, your name has often been in my mind, but I have never had occasion to fear you. Come closer here and look me in the face. Then you may strike with this blade if you dare!"

She leaned forward and her eyes were glued upon him for the space of a minute. Then she uttered a sharp cry. Roger loosened his grip upon her wrist, and the hand holding the dagger dropped to her side.

"Will you strike now?" he asked quietly, while a strange look came into his eyes.

"Great heaven! what have I seen? No, your life is sacred from my dagger. You are not Roger Darrel, but the man who saved me when I would have leaped into the mad river, and to whom I owe much. What if I had slain you; my own life would have followed, for I never could have survived such base ingratitude. Farewell, my friend of the past. We shall meet again."

Before he could restrain her she had sped away, vanishing among the shadows of the trees as though pursued by fairies.

Roger Darrel resumed his walk in the direction of his home. What thoughts were swirling through his mind just then it would be hard indeed to say, but he seemed to be laboring under some powerful emotion.

What was it the gypsy girl had said? "Not Roger Darrel!"

What mockery could this be, then? How dared he come there and take possession of Darrel Chase if he was not the true heir?

Captain Grant was an honored guest at Richmond Terrace, and his word seemed to be law. The servants all had their orders to obey him as promptly as they did their master, and between the fiery old man and the whimsical soldier they were kept pretty busy.

Lawrence Richmond had been more moody than ever. He watched Captain Grant from under his watchful white eyebrows with almost a glare in his eyes, and once in a while there might have been seen upon his face an ominous scowl.

The secret that lay between these two men dealt with the past, and it hung over the head of Lawrence Richmond like the knife of the guillotine. Every day that passed served to increase the feeling of mingled dread and hatred which the one bore toward the other, and Lawrence Richmond was fast becoming desperate.

A demand on the part of the soldier for his daughter served to cap the climax. In spite of his terrible temper and his strange actions at times which would seem to belie the fact, this man sincerely loved his child.

Alone in his library the master of the Terrace paced to and fro like a caged tiger. He did not notice the presence in the room of the Captain until the latter gave utterance to a low, metallic laugh.

The old man looked up quickly, and the keen-eyed soldier noticed a wild, half-eager look upon his face that he had never seen there before.

"He has settled upon something; I can see it by the glitter of his eyes and the way he shuts his teeth. Have a care, my old gentleman, or you will find your claws nipped still closer."

Thus he muttered as he waited for Mr. Richmond to speak.

"You here?" said the other, at last; "what a wonder I knew it not, for generally I feel the evil influence of your presence like a deadly vapor."

"You are disposed to be sarcastic, Mr. Richmond, but under the peculiar circumstances I can forgive you. I am come to ask a little temporary loan of you—a matter of a mere thousand or two."

"Curses on you and your loans, you will drive me to distraction yet. What if I should go mad? Why, man, I would tear you limb from limb, I hate you so. Do you not ever think of the risk you are running in persecuting me thus?"

"I have done nothing so terrible, my dear old gentleman. The case lies in a nutshell. You had your choice between providing for me with a small portion of your immense worldly goods, or else losing the whole of them, your liberty, and, perhaps, your life. That you have chosen the former only proves your wisdom."

There was conscious power in the voice of the Captain that was peculiarly aggravating to the old man, but he calmed himself as well as he was able, though his eyes still glittered with that strange, metallic gleam that boded no good to the object of his anger.

"I hate you," he said, "not so much for what you are doing, man, but because you know I am perfectly innocent of crime, and yet, knowing this, you still blackmail me."

"That is a very nice statement for you to make, dear sir, but how are you going to prove it in any way?"

"Ha! schemer, there more of your cunning crops out. The papers that would exonerate me you have stolen and hold over my head. To save them from being destroyed and myself from future trouble, I have been buying your silence in the past, but now your demands are growing too preposterous. For the last time I ask for your mercy. I would not have your blood upon my hands, but I feel like a man hunted by a human bloodhound and who must, unless the dog gives up the chase, either call himself or destroy the hound. Plainly, Captain Grant, is it your life, or mine?"

"Then hear me, old man. I utterly refuse all compromise. I have no other means of living at present except on you, and as, for reasons of my own, I expect to make America my home in the future, I may as well provide against a rainy day. It is but fair, then, that there should be an equitable division; so make up your mind to that."

Lawrence Richmond's face whitened, and the skin seemed drawn like parchment over the bones. His teeth were clinched as if set in agony, and the wild gleam deepened in his eyes.

He reached out his hand and it fell upon a peculiar nail in the wainscoting. As his finger pressed against this, a portion of the oiled floor of the library suddenly yawned open, leaving an aperture of perhaps a width of four feet, down which the Captain would have been hurled like a cannon ball, but for the fact that he gave an agile spring just as the trap fell, that landed him beyond the danger line. Quickly he whipped out a little silver-mounted revolver.

"Foiled again, old man. You see it is useless to fight against fate. I am ready for any such emergency," and, turning, he left the room.

"Curses on him," muttered the old man, deeply moved, "he bears a charmed life. Satan protects his own, but I will yet burst asunder the bonds of fate, and then let him beware."

GAS FLAME MAKES MUSIC.

A Singular Musical Instrument Designed by an Eminent Scientist.

Few men who deal in science from the abstract standpoint ever evolve anything practical from their theories, but Prof. Ogden Reed has proved an exception.

A New York mechanic has constructed, upon the professor's suggestion, a musical instrument of a decidedly novel description. Until informed, no one would ever recognize the apparatus. It is part of the chandelier in the owner's drawing-room. The basis of the affair is the so-called musical flame.

When gas is burned in a cylindrical chimney of a certain length and width it produces a musical note. According to the angle at which the vapor is emitted from the jet, there will be either a sound or silence. A simple contrivance enables the owner by touching a button to change the flame from musical to non-musical at his will. There are thirty lamps in his chandelier so arranged as to make four octaves. The keyboard is in a corner of the room, where it occupies but little space and might easily be mistaken for a convenient shelf on the wall. The music produced by the flames is very pleasant. It is not as loud nor as vibrant as that from either wood or brass wind instruments, but is fuller and more sonorous than a whistle or a flute.

An odd feature of the instrument is that playing on the flames does not vary the amount of light produced, the musical being indistinguishable from the non-musical flame. All that the spectator notices is a delightful melody of unusual timbre coming to him from the chandelier.

The owner has frequently had considerable fun by playing the instrument when some one was in the room or hall that knew nothing of the affair. Where the auditor was educated he was puzzled and looked about the parlors in vain for the new-fangled music box he believed to be at work. Where he was ignorant he usually manifested some fear along with his bewilderment.

Ingredients of Meteors.

Meteors which reach the earth almost invariably contain a large quantity of iron and a smaller amount of nickel.

MAKING BUTTER IN HOT WEATHER.

In a recent Home and Farm, Maud Shields, of Arkansas, gives some points on the subject. She says: I say by all means get a separator, then buy milk cans large enough to hold one milking of cream, let it cool, put the lid on the can and hang it in the well. It does not matter whether it is in the water or not, it will keep cool, and will be ready to churn in twenty-four hours. Use a thermometer and churn at about 64 or 65 degrees. Take up the butter, wash thoroughly by pressing with the paddle. Don't drag the paddle through it, as it spoils the grain. Salt it, using pure salt, and mold it as quick as possible. Wrap each pound in a nice clean cloth wrung out of cold water.

Get you an empty butter keg from your grocery man, bore holes near the top just below the lid, take a piece of new rope and make a handle, put nice, clean, new white paper in the bottom, then put in the butter. Put another piece on top just below the lid and hang it in the well. Paper is better than cloth, as the cloth mildews.

When you are ready to go to town, use another keg just like the one in the well; put a clean towel in the bottom; put in the butter; then another clean towel on top. Fasten on the lid, wet some clean sacks in a tub, fold them without wringing on the bottom of your wagon, set the butter keg on them, and wrap wet sacks around the keg and on top. As you deliver the butter take the cloths off, take them home, and wash and scald thoroughly. Keep two sets of cloths; while one set is sunning and drying another can be used. We have a separator; we sell a part of the milk sweet, the rest we make buttermilk. We set it and let it clabber; then take an old-fashioned churn-dash, and churn it up and down until it is free from lumps and is smooth. Don't put any water in it! leave it thick; it sells much better. When you are ready to go to town, mix what buttermilk you have from the cream with it.

SAW-FILING DEVICE.

Selecting a crosscut saw that will work rapidly and with ease requires considerable experience. A saw having 4 cutting teeth, as shown in cut at a, to 1 straight drag tooth, b, with back of saw 4 gauges thinner than edge. It requires less work to keep such a saw in order. Medium thickness is best. A thick saw is clumsy and cuts a large groove, while a very thin one requires frequent resetting. Our cut shows a filing frame for a crosscut saw. The base, c, is 2 feet long, 1 foot wide and 6 inches high. It should be fastened to the floor. The pieces, d, d, are 2x3 inches and are mortised in the base. The piece, e, is 1x6 inches, cut shape of saw and beveled to the saw. There are three 1/2-inch bolts at c, c, c, on which saw rests and is tightened when put in the frame. The entire height is 45 inches.—W. A. Sharp, in Farm and Home.

Feed for Laying Hens.

There is probably no food better calculated to promote laying in fowls than cowpeas. Peas or beans of any sort are good, but large ones must be ground, or fowls will rarely eat them. Of cowpeas the smallest variety should be chosen, as fowls unused to such grain must be accustomed to it gradually. But once get them to eat peas and the victory is won. They are a perfect substitute for insects, meat scrap, blood-meal and other animal preparations that are often so combined with cheap substances that the hens are a long time learning that when they are fed "Lohmsholt's concentrated egg food" they ought to lay fluently. Instead of almost imperceptible, pea vines with peas on them cut as soon as the peas are full grown and while yet green, thrown into the chicken yard, will give them exercise and the very sort of food their nature craves. They will eat the peas, the leaves, and as much of the stems as they can break up small enough to swallow.

A Good Thing to Do.

There is no branch of farm operations that can be permanently and profitably improved more easily and at less cost than the poultry yards. A dollar or two invested in eggs of good breeds of fowls will bring back many times the investment within a year or two. If you want to improve your poultry, you can do it quickly, cheaply and with but little risk.

Breeders have learned that it pays to send out no eggs except from good stock. A sitting or two is all that is needed for a good start. A very few dollars spent for good eggs means a nice flock of fowls in one year, when you may be in a position to sell to your neighbors at good big prices.—Exchange.

Cutting Grass Early.

Chemical analysis is said to show that the grass cut when the seed has ripened, or is nearly ripe, has about the same amount of nutrition as it has when cut earlier, and thus some allow it to stand that it may increase in weight. But when the cow puts it through her laboratory she does not find the same value in the late-cut hay. A part of the seeds have rotted out and been lost, and the remainder are so small and so encased in a dry coating or shell that not many of them are chewed up, and thus pass through the stomach and bowels undigested. Then the stalks which contain the most nutriment before the seed has formed have become simply woody fibre as indigestible as bean poles, and she gets but little nutrition from them. We think if she could speak she would say that two-thirds or less of the amount of hay, cut early, and not sun-dried too long, was better than her usual ration of hay, ripened before cut and overdried afterward. But if she can not talk she has many times put herself on record to that effect at the milk pail and the churn, and it is because the owner fails to see and understand these records that he does not know the facts. The scale to weigh the milk and the Babcock test for the butter fat help to tell what is the best food, as well as which is the best cow.—American Cultivator.

Haying on Soft Meadows.

Along sluggish streams are thousands of acres producing fairly good cow hay, but on which teams cannot be driven without danger of becoming mired. The work is therefore all done by hand, including the dreaded task of "poling out," or carrying the hay in large cocks on a pair of poles, to the edge of the upland, where it is to be loaded. To avoid this drudgery some farmers use mud shoes for their horses, as illustrated. The shoes are of oak, 1 inch thick and 3x10 inches for a horse of average weight. Edges are beveled and planed, and ends are strongly cleated on the under side. Holes are made to fit the projections of the iron shoe and an iron strap, which a blacksmith will make from the illustration for a few cents, passes across the hoof and is fastened by nuts on the lower side of the mud shoe.

After Harvest.

After the wheat is harvested the young clover grows rapidly, as its supply of plant food is increased by reason of the riddance of its wheat competitor, but many farmers allow weeds to grow, mowing them down before they produce seed. Such a plan is better than to leave the weeds to mature, but the proper course to pursue is to mow the weeds when they are young and before they have deprived the clover plants of food. By mowing them two or three times during the summer many of them will be destroyed.

Clipping Work Horses.

Whether or not it pays to clip work horses was tested at the Michigan experiment station and reported in a recent bulletin. The conclusions were not as definite as might be desired. The station, however, believes that the horses which were clipped did their work with much greater comfort in early spring than those which were not clipped. This of course means a great deal when animals are at work preparing the land for spring crops. The clipped horses always look better.

Grass for Sandy Lands.

Awnless brome grass (bromus inermis) will be found excellent for use on drifting sands. It is a perennial, looks somewhat like blue grass and is suitable for light, dry, poor soils and resists dry weather. About fifteen pounds of seed per acre should be used. It spreads by creeping underground stems or root stocks. It will not thrive on wet soils. While not as valuable as many other varieties, yet it serves well on light sandy soils upon which no other grass will grow.

Commercial Feeding Stuffs.

The New York experiment station says that in its inspection of commercial feeding stuffs unmixing or standard goods were found to be of fairly uniform quality and practically as good as the guarantees except in a single instance. The discrepancies occurred with the mixed goods, many of which contained old hulls, as shown by the percentage of crude fiber present. Adulteration of cornmeal and other grain products appears to be practiced.

Managing Dairy Cows.

The proper management of dairy cows embraces far more than their mere cramming with food. "The cow milks by the mouth," is an old saying, and it is quite true to a certain extent, but if she be given even large quantities of unsuitable or badly balanced food she will not milk to her fullest capacity. Besides, there are a great many other things to be attended to as well as the food, such as watering and ventilation.

Hay Will Be High.

It seems a probability that hay will continue high one more year, says an exchange. Last year's drought affected the area of meadows in the West beyond doubt, and the crop reports place condition below the average. Some dry weather this year has cut the possibilities of the crop badly. In portions of the East the weather has been equally dry.

RACINE MAN MISSING.

James Johnson, Prominent Danish Resident, Leaves Home and Cannot be Located.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The family and relatives of James Johnson, one of the prominent Danish residents of this city, have been searching the city and vicinity since yesterday morning for the missing man. Johnson, who has been in ill-health for several years, left his home early yesterday morning and he has not been seen since. Some fears are expressed of his having met with foul play, but it is generally supposed that he has committed suicide. He was last seen about a mile west of the city near the shore of the lake, where he may have ended his troubles in the river.

Johnson was 52 years of age and at one time was a mail carrier in this city. His wife and children claim he has acted in a strange manner for several days previous to his disappearance.

STARTED MANY FIRES.

Fifteen Boys Arrested at Three Lakes for Setting Fires in Different Places.

Three Lakes, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—About fifteen boys from 8 to 15 years of age were arrested here this afternoon for setting fires in different places near this village. The lads at one time had built a wigwag and were playing Indians, dancing around the camp fire; and at another time they had set a fire for the purpose of testing their skill in putting it out. No damage, however, resulted from any of their sprees. The youngsters will be released when they have thoroughly learned that setting fires in this dry weather is a dangerous sport.

RACINE MAIN BURSTS.

Water Pipe Laid Under River at Expense of $25,000 is Reported Leaking.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The big 24-inch water main under the Root river, which was laid several months ago at an expense of $25,000 to the city, is reported to have burst and the repair will be another big expense item to the city.

A number of residents are complaining of the bursting of their waterpipes in their houses. This is said to be caused by the testing which the water department is making at present, preparatory to the annual test for leakage, which takes place next month.

GRANT COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

Big Crowd Assembles at Lancaster to Witness Laying of Cornerstone.

Lancaster, Wis., Aug. 28.—Not since the close of the war, when the soldiers' monument was unveiled, has there been so large a crowd of people assembled here in Lancaster, on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the new court house. The court house square was a sea of faces. Farmers, their families and employees left their homes and fields in the midst of harvest to attend the ceremony. To this great occasion, stores and banks were closed and business was suspended. A parade of great length was led by ex-Senator Charles Baxter, marshal of the day.

NEW CLUB AT LA CROSSE.

Organization of Cohasset Club Perfecting Last Evening.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 28.—A new club was organized by over 100 young men in this city and it is announced that it will be known as the Cohasset Club and that it will rival the success of the Cohasset Club in La Crosse, Wis., which is composed entirely of men eligible to membership in the La Crosse Club, but who for various reasons are not members. Many are old-time members of the famous Winnebago Club which was abandoned last year. Handsome apartments on South Fifth street have been secured and the decorating and furnishing will be started immediately.

WILL EXHIBIT AT FAIR.

Gates County to be Represented at the State Fair.

Ladysmith, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The county board of supervisors in session yesterday appropriated $150 to defray the expense of making an exhibit of products of the soil of Gates county at the State fair at Milwaukee and the Northern Wisconsin fair at Chippewa Falls. Marshall Sergeant of Fern will have charge of the exhibit.

VESPER.

The picnic given on Saturday by the Woodmen lodge of this bureau, spoiled both from a financial and social standpoint by the unfavorable weather that existed both afternoon and evening. The consequence being that the lodge ran behind on the day's doings. During the afternoon a fairly good crowd assembled, and some of the races were pulled off, among which were the 100 yard dash, wheelbarrow race and the girl's race. The dance was cut rather short by the rain, and in the evening festivities had to be suspended altogether on this account. The fact that Vesper needs a hall in which dances can be held was made plainly evident by Saturday's proceedings, as had there been a hall to go to when the rain started the picnic might have been continued in a manner at least, and the lodge been enabled to at least come out even.

Vesper may become a paint manufacturing center in the near future. C. S. Goldsworthy has discovered on a piece of his land a bed of clay which had all the appearance of being good for the manufacture of mineral paint. He had some of it analyzed and the results showed that he had not been mistaken. He left on Friday for Sterling, Ill., where he had sent the specimens, for the purpose of investigating the matter more thoroughly. There is also clay in this vicinity that is thought to contain a large percentage of aluminum, which, if true, may prove of great value to the owners.

Joseph White is erecting a very neat and commodious residence on his farm. The building is 24x30 with a wing. Mr. White intends that it shall be warm, as he is having the structure back lathed and plastered as well as matched sheeting, over which there will be paper and siding. Messrs. T. J. White and E. R. Griffith of Grand Rapids are doing the carpenter work, and they will soon have it ready for the finishing.

The creamery of the Albert Dairy company is turning out about 360 pounds of butter daily, which is very good for the number of cows that are tributary to the plant. The product is all shipped to Cincinnati, Ohio, as fast as manufactured.

C. Otto is rapidly getting his store into shape, and he will soon be ready to move in. He is also building an addition, which with the upstairs will do for residence purposes.

Andrew Bissig, the popular cranberry grower of City Point called on his many friends here on Saturday.

LONG-SIGHT OR HYPERMETROPIA.

The normal eye is always round like an orange. In this defect the diameter of the eye is too short from front to rear. People with this deformity are generally born that way and it stays with them to the grave. It is usually called long-sight not because the person can see first rate at a distance perhaps but because they can see much better than they can close by. School children with this defect, and you will meet them quite often, on account of the prolonged use of the eye in reading and study suffer much from fatigue. Headaches, blurring and smarting of the eyes, and a long train of unpleasant symptoms can be perfectly corrected if properly fitted with glasses.
